5 Jerome Henderson
Although Clemson defensive back Jerome Henderson is not one of the largest players on the Tiger defense, there is no doubt in anyone's mind that when it comes to respect from his teammates, he is on top of the list, as Annabelle Vaughan explains.

7 Arlington Nunn
On a squad that ranks number one in the country in total defense, there are many stars, but as Annabelle Vaughan explains, Academic All-ACC selection Arlington Nunn has helped the Tigers with his consistent play on the field and his hard work off the field.

49 Scott Beville
Clemson placekicker Chris Gardocki is one of the top specialists in the country this season, but he has had some assistance from one of his teammates along the way. Mickey Plyler takes a look at the Tigers' long snapper, Scott Beville.

53 Mike Eppley
For his academic and athletic accomplishments at Clemson University, former quarterback and point guard Mike Eppley will be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame at halftime. Tim Bourret reviews the collegiate career of one of Clemson's most versatile athletes ever.

62 Men's Basketball Preview
The 1990-91 edition of Clemson Tiger basketball takes to the court this month as they prepare to defend their first Atlantic Coast Conference regular season championship. Turn to page 62 as Tim Bourret examines Cliff Ellis' squad for the upcoming season.

77 Mother-of-the-Year
Each year Tiger Brotherhood honors the Clemson Mother-of-the-Year for her contributions to the Clemson community. The organization selected another deserving lady this year in Evelyn Jamieson, the mother of seven Clemson University graduates.

105 Bob Trott
When the Clemson Tigers run down the hill this afternoon, it is easy to agree it is one of the most impressive sights in college football, unless you are on the other sideline. Clemson defensive coordinator Bob Trott has been on both sides of that experience, as Sanford Rogers explains.

112 The Last Word
This weekend many members of Clemson's 1950 football team return to the Clemson campus for a reunion and as Bob Bradley tells us, that team placed some marks in the record books that have stood for a long time.

Clemson Wins Number 500

Clemson became just the 30th member of the 500-club when it defeated Wake Forest in Winston-Salem last Saturday. The Tigers now have a 500-345-44 record in their 95 seasons of play (counting games against competition at all levels). Michigan State also joined the 500-club with a win over Rutgers earlier this season. Maryland and Missouri both have 497 lifetime wins and are on the precipice.

Georgia Tech and North Carolina are the only other ACC teams to have already reached 500 wins. The Yellow Jackets have 532 wins in 100 seasons, while the Tar Heels have 520 in 102 seasons.

Clemson has more wins in conference games and overall games when making a comparison between ACC teams since 1953, the first year of ACC play. Clemson has 142 league wins, three more than Maryland. Clemson's 67.2 winning percentage in league games is way ahead of Maryland's .623. In terms of overall wins since 1953, Clemson has 238, 22 more than second-place Maryland.

Resurgent Tar Heels Travel to Clemson

North Carolina might be the most improved team in the Southeast. The record speaks for itself as Mack Brown's club enters Death Valley with a 5-2-1 ledger. Over the last two weeks the Tar Heels have tied a top 15 Georgia Tech team, 13-13, and rolled over Maryland, 34-10.

Offensive firepower has been the biggest area of improvement for the Tar Heels, who were 1-10 each of the last two seasons. Last season North Carolina was last in the ACC in total offense, rushing offense, passing offense and scoring offense.

But, last week the Tar Heels gained over 500 yards in total offense, including 312 yards in passing. It has been a balanced attack that features the passing of Todd Burnett, a junior, who has completed 52 percent of his passes for 1140 yards. He has thrown just five interceptions in 174 attempts and has become more and more adept at running the offense.

His favorite receiver is Corey Holliday, a 6-2 freshman who has 20 catches for 365 yards. He and Clemson's Terry Smith, another freshman, will have quite an individual battle in the receiving corps this week. The top rusher for North Carolina is freshman Natrone Means with 470 yards. Junior Eric Blount has gained 325 yards, giving North Carolina depth at running back it has not seen in four years.

Defensively, Dwight Hollier is among the league leaders in tackles with 103, including six behind the line of scrimmage. Only one North Carolina opponent in the last five games has scored at least 15 points against the Tar Heels and the play of Tommy Thigpen has been a reason, as the inside backer has 76 tackles. Eric Gash is the leader of the outside linebackers with 53 tackles, while Jonathan Perry has six sacks to tie Thigpen for the team lead.

If you see both coaches playing for a field goal down the stretch it will be understandable. Two of the top six kickers in the nation will be on display. Clemson's Chris Gardocki is sixth in the nation in field goals per game, while North Carolina's Clint Gwaltney is third with 18 field goals in just eight contests.

Harmon Sets Knockdown Block Record

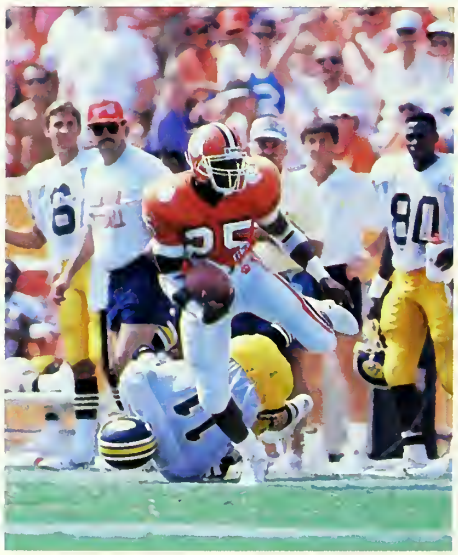
Clemson senior Eric Harmon became Clemson's career leader in knockdown blocks last Saturday when he accumulated nine against Wake Forest. Harmon needed just three against Wake Forest, but had to wait until Sunday when Clemson offensive coordinator Larry Van Der Heyden graded the film.

Harmon now has 55 knockdowns for the season (tops on the Clemson team) and 252 for his career. He broke the record of 245, set by John Phillips between 1985 and 1987. Harmon, a two-time ACC offensive lineman of the week this year, graded 72 percent for his performance against Wake Forest and helped Clemson to 383 yards in total offense.

The native of New Jersey has started 44 games in his career, a Clemson record for an offensive lineman. In fact, Rodney Williams is the only other Tiger in history with that many starts. Thus, if Harmon starts on Saturday against North Carolina, he will set a Tiger record for starts in a career, regardless of position. He has missed just one game, against Wake Forest last year. Ironically, he tied the career record for starts against the only team he has missed a game in his career.

Ninety Six Native Nearing 96 Yds/Game

Clemson's leading rusher, Ronald Williams, is a native of Ninety Six, SC, one of the most unusual names for a hometown for a Clemson football player in history. Williams has been Clemson's leading rusher this year with 734 yards in 125 attempts, an average of 91.7 yards per game.



Williams needs 130 yards rushing to reach his hometown average.

Williams needs 130 yards against North Carolina to average 96 yards per game, or an average that would match the name of his hometown. In addition to the hometown oddity, the 96 yards per game mark would put Williams in select company. Only six players in Clemson history have averaged 96 yards a game or more over the course of a season. Here is a list of Clemson's top single season rushing yards per game figures:

Rk	Player	Year	GP	Yards	Yds/G
1.	Cliff Austin	1982	10	1064	106.4
2.	Terrence Flagler	1986	12	1258	104.8
3.	Buddy Gore	1967	10	1045	104.5
4.	Kenny Flowers	1985	12	1200	100.0

Clemson Defense Outstanding in Second Half

Clemson has been ranked in the top five in the nation in defense all season and ranked number-one this week. The Tigers have been especially effective in the second half this season, an indication of Clemson's depth, conditioning or an ability to make halftime adjustments.

So far this season Clemson has allowed just three offensive touchdown drives in 57 second-half possessions. Only one has been for more than 15 yards. Virginia's offense scored two touchdowns on Clemson's defense in the third period, but one was just an eight-yard drive after a long punt return. Georgia Tech has the only fourth quarter TD by an opponent offense, and that was just a 13-yard drive.

In other words, Clemson's defense has allowed only one TD by the opponent offense in the fourth period in 29 opponent possessions...and that one touchdown drive was just 13 yards. No Clemson opponent has started a drive in their own territory and driven for a touchdown in the fourth period against the Tigers this season.

Clemson Boasts Number-One Ranked Defense

Clemson enters its 10th game of the season ranked first in the nation in total defense. The Tigers have allowed an average of 215.9 yards per game rushing and passing this year, the best figure in the nation. No Clemson team has ever won the national total defense title. The best previous total defense finish was third by the 1954 team that allowed opponents just 176 yards per game.

Clemson also ranks third in the nation in rushing defense, third in scoring defense and ninth in passing efficiency defense. No Clemson team has ever finished in the top 10 in the country in all four defensive categories. Last year's team was the first Clemson club to rank in the top 25 in all four areas in the same season.

McDaniel has led Clemson's #1 ranked defense in tackles four straight games.

Clemson's Second Half Dominance

Clemson has improved its offensive production in the second half of every game this year. In other words, Clemson has had a higher total offense figure for the second half as opposed to the first half in nine straight games. Clemson opponents have gained more yards in the second half in just two of the first nine games. One of those improvements was by Appalachian State, who had 52 yards in the first half and 71 in the second.

Clemson opponents have averaged just 80.4 yards per game in the second half this year, while the Tigers have averaged 230 yards per game in the second half. That is an average total offense margin in Clemson's favor of 150 yards per game.

It has been especially amazing in terms of rushing offense. Clemson has averaged 169 yards per game on the ground in the second half this year, while opponents have averaged just 30.4 yards per game on the ground in the second half. Virginia (151) is the only team to gain over 55 yards on the ground in the second half. Five teams have failed to gain as much as 15 yards rushing in the second half against Clemson this year. Georgia gained just six yards, Appalachian State just one. Last week, Wake Forest had just 11 yards rushing in the second half.

Six of Clemson's first nine opponents have failed to gain 100 yards in total offense against Clemson in the second half.

Hoover Will Work 350th Straight Game

Clemson Head Trainer and Assistant Athletic Director Fred Hoover will work his 350th straight Clemson football game this Saturday when Clemson meets North Carolina. Hoover has been Clemson's trainer since the 1959 season. He has never missed a Clemson football game and is nearing the end of his 32nd season supervising the Tigers training needs.

Hoover is a member of the Clemson Hall of Fame and, in 1987 won the South Carolina Hall of Fame Distinguished Service Award. He is also a member of the National Trainers Hall of Fame.

Clemson 4-0 at Home This Year

Clemson has a 4-0 record at home so far this year with contests against North Carolina and South Carolina remaining. Clemson hopes to win both of those November contests to close out its first perfect season at home since 1981, the year Clemson won the national championship. Since that year the Tigers have had at least a loss or a tie every year.

Clemson has had 11 perfect seasons at home since Death Valley opened in 1942, but the Tigers have had just two in the last 16 years.

Clemson has been dominant at home so far this season, outscoring the opposition 167-10. Clemson's defense has not allowed the opponent offense to score a touchdown in Death Valley this year. The only opponent touchdown came on a kickoff return by Duke on September 30. Additionally, opponents are averaging just 131.75 yards per game in total offense against Clemson in Death Valley this season.

McDaniel Most Consistent

Clemson inside linebacker Ed McDaniel is the leading tackler on the number-one defense in the nation. The junior from Batesburg, SC had 10 tackles in the victory over Wake Forest to lead the Tigers for the fourth straight game. It was his fourth consecutive double figure tackle effort and his fifth double figure game of the season.

McDaniel now has 78 tackles for the season, 15 more than any other Tiger defensive player. McDaniel also has 10 tackles for loss for the season to rank second on the Clemson team, and he also leads the team in caused fumbles with three. McDaniel had only seven tackles for loss in his career entering this season, but he has had 10 this season as he has been used as a blitzing linebacker more this year.

Jerome Henderson

By Annabelle Vaughan

"Do you not know that in a race all the runners run, but only one gets the prize? Run in such a way as to get the prize. Everyone who competes in the games goes into strict training. They do it to get a crown that will not last; but we do it to get a crown that will last forever." I Cor. 9:24-25

Jerome Henderson may not be the biggest player on the Clemson team. In fact at 5-10, 187-pounds, he and his fellow defensive backs are dwarfed when they stand next to the likes of Chester McGlockton and Vance Hammond in the defensive huddle. He may not be the most well known player on the team, or even in the defensive secondary, even though he broke up more passes last season than his counterparts in the backfield who won all-conference honors, and he is currently the 1990 team-leader in that category. And he is definitely not the most talkative Clemson player, refusing most of the time to even do interviews because of his shyness. But when it comes to respect from his teammates, Jerome Henderson may lead the Clemson team because of his strong faith in Jesus Christ and his commitment to living a Christian life.

The other players call him "Reverend" or "Rev." And when he and fellow defensive backs Arlington Nunn and Mitch Belton moved into an off-campus apartment at the beginning of this semester, his teammates wittingly named the new residence "Three Men and a Bible." But Jerome Henderson takes all of that playful ribbing as a compliment. "It's tough to live a Christian life in this world sometimes, but if you're going to say you're something around the guys on the team, you better do what you say or you will never hear the end of it. When they call me 'Reverend,' that holds me accountable in a way. I know I'm not perfect. If I was, I wouldn't need Christ in my life. The guys on the team encourage me more than they know because they won't let me slip."

Because of his strong beliefs and his gentle spirit, some people might expect Henderson to be less of a player, perhaps not as tough and ferocious as an athlete should be. But in fact, Henderson feels that it is his faith that makes him the player he is. "I think people are completely wrong about a Christian not being tough," he says. "If you look at the life that Christ led, you can't tell me that He was not a tough man. The things that He went through and the things that He did...there's no way the average man could suffer those things. A Christian's goal is to conform to Christ and if I was conformed to His image, there's no telling what I could accomplish on the football field because I wouldn't let anything come between me and my goals. I would be a fearless person. I wouldn't fear emotional harm or physical harm. I would always play hard and always give my best, just like He did. If I was totally conformed to Him, those things would be in order. That is what I constantly struggle with and strive for."

Henderson's striving has paid off for him and for the Tigers on the field, even though he may be one of the most underrated players on the team and perhaps even in the nation. He currently ranks in the top-10 in Clemson history in passes broken up after leading the team with 14 in 1989. His blazing 4.32 speed in the 40-yard dash has caught the eye of pro scouts and has often frustrated Clemson's opponents. In fact, in Pro Football Weekly's Pro Prospect Preview, Henderson was called one of the two most underrated cornerbacks in the nation. Out of all the pro prospects in the nation, Henderson was ranked third at his position. "Henderson can run and cover and is the most flexible athlete at Clemson," touted the publication. "Jerome Henderson and Dexter Davis could be the finest set of corners in the conference. Nobody talks about Henderson...except the pro scouts."

When it comes to competition on the field of play and the struggles of daily life, Henderson has claimed I Corinthians 9:24-25 as his theme. "That verse says so much to me because its telling me that whenever I go out on the field, I'm supposed to give it all I've got to win. I'm supposed to run and compete in such a way as to win. I'm commanded to sell out and give it all I have, on the football field and in every aspect of my life. I'm not doing it for the things of the world, but for a higher purpose. I tried to do things the world's way and I tried and I tried and I tried, but I kept coming up short every time. I kept coming up empty. Even my best efforts on my own were a failing effort. Now, I have the satisfaction of knowing that even while I'm far from perfect, I'm changing every day. It's not an overnight change. It's a slow, lifelong process. I will never be completely conformed to Christ's image, but if I allow him to work through me, I will continue to get better and improve."

Selling out to Christ has not made life a bed of roses for Henderson. In fact, just recently, his father was diagnosed with prostrate cancer and just finished undergoing radiation treatment. "My family is a great inspiration to me," says Henderson quietly. "Prostrate cancer is curable in most cases if they catch it in time, so we are just praying that they caught my dad's. But it has been tough. Early in the season, it really effected my attitude and my play. I have been dealing with a lot because its the kind of thing you never think will happen to your family. But Christ doesn't promise an easy life, He promises an abundant life. I can go to sleep at night and not worry about my Dad or about anything. I have peace about how things will turn out."

Henderson hopes that the way things turn out will include a shot at professional football. "I hope I get the chance and if I do get the chance, that I'm up to that challenge. If God has other plans for me, I know that I won't be playing professional football. I also think I would like to get into coaching someday because of the influence coaches have had on my life. I have played under two great defensive back coaches at Clemson and I learned a lot from both of them. I also had two great coaches influence my life in high school. I had always thought about going into the service or maybe going to college but my parents would have to pay for it. I never imagined playing college football, but Coach David Moody and Coach George Conger came in and really challenged me. They saw something in me that a lot of other people didn't see. They had more faith in me than I had in myself. I would like to have that kind of positive influence on someone else one day."

Jerome Henderson does not have to wait for the future to have a positive influence on the lives of others. He frequently speaks to church groups and school groups, overcoming his shyness to speak boldly about his faith. And his play on the field and his unswerving faith have made him a positive influence on his teammates and most people who come in contact with him.

Henderson led the Tigers in PBUs last year and is among the league leaders in 1990.

Arlington Nunn

By Annabelle Vaughan

Arlington Nunn may not have won many awards for his accomplishments on the football field, but his play during his Clemson career has been consistent and his statistics impressive. In a defense that boasts linebackers who have been dubbed the nation's best, the unheralded Nunn is a key member of the Tiger secondary that has also been impressive, as the Tigers' rank in the top 10 nationally in passing efficiency defense week after week. Off the field, his hard work in the classroom has earned him a reputation for being one of the scholastic leaders of the Clemson team. The unheralded Nunn has definitely lived up to a simple self-description throughout his career at Clemson. "I want to be known on the field and off the field as somebody who gets the job done and strives for excellence in all aspects of my life."

On the football field, Nunn has definitely gotten the job done. He got his senior season off to a great start when he scored the Tigers' first touchdown of 1990, picking off a Long Beach State pass and carrying it 55-yards for a Clemson score. He leads the Tiger secondary in tackles for loss this season and was also the leader in that category in 1989. He also has more quarterback pressures than anyone else in the Clemson defensive backfield and has even caused a fumble in 1990. And even though he ranks second among Tiger DBs in total tackles, he has played most of this season in a cast due to an injured thumb on his right hand.

"It's hard when you're out there and you can't do your best on every play," Nunn says. "This cast really slows me down sometimes. When I try to make a tackle and wrap people up, I can't. It bothers me because people way up in the top of the stadium can't see that I have this cast on. All they can see is that I'm missing a tackle or dropping a ball. It gets aggravating. But I have just had to keep doing the best I can do and try to get the job done in other ways."

Nunn celebrates after his 55-yard interception return for a TD against Long Beach State, Clemson's first score of the season.

Although the cast may have hampered his ability to intercept the ball or wrap up on tackles, it has not done anything to decrease the reputation of being a hard hitter that has carried over since his high school playing days at Dunedin High School in Clearwater, FL, when he recorded 85 tackles and two interceptions his senior year despite teams running away from his cornerback position. "How did I get a reputation for being a hard hitter? I guess I just used to hit people hard! I just back-pedal then when they come my way and I rack 'em up." A smile begins to creep into Nunn's face as he continues. "I play football with reckless abandon. When I play football, I'm hell bent for leather and I'm tougher than blue-twisted steel!"

The Tiger secondary may be one of the most underrated in the nation, despite ranking in the top-10 nationally in passing efficiency all season. "With our linebackers, its hard for any other position to get publicity," says Nunn. "Those boys are so good, they deserve it. But I don't think that people realize that sometimes it is in our game plan to let the other team catch the ball short. But when they catch it, our job is to make them pay for it. I never expected to be a superstar. I just want to get the job done."

Getting the job done at the roverback position is not always easy, as Nunn is the first to tell. "You have to be so many things rolled into one to play my position," he says. "You have to be able to hit like an inside linebacker. You have to be able to play a tight end like an outside linebacker. You have to be able to cover like a cornerback. And you have to catch the ball like a receiver. And sometimes, you have to be half-crazy to take on some of the people we take on. I remember when we played West Virginia in the Gator Bowl last year, I had to go up against a tight end named Adrian Moss. He was huge - the biggest tight end I have ever seen in my life, and here I am having to deal with his blocks. You have to be pretty versatile to get the job done at my position."

"Art may not be the best on the team at doing any one of those things he has to do," says cornerback Jerome Henderson, "but he is the best on the team at being able to do all of those things. He has to work on so many aspects of the game, but he always seems to get the job done."

Another place where Nunn has gotten the job done is in the Tiger strength training room. His 370-pound bench press mark leads all Clemson defensive backs and his other strength stats are also among the best in the defensive secondary. Nunn has taken pride in his strength training and it has shown in his ability to hit much harder than his 5-10, 190-pound frame would suggest.

"I'm not the fastest defensive back out there by any means," says Nunn. "So I just say to myself that since I'm not fast, I might as well be strong. Strength makes up for a lot of things and I think working hard in the weight room has definitely made me a better player. That was something I learned in high school and it has just carried over. I take pride in it. It might not always be fun, but it's a job I have to get done."

The Academic All-ACC performer is one of Clemson's top tacklers.

Gary Wade, the Tigers' head strength coach and former head strength coach of the Detroit Lions, applauds Nunn's work. "Arlington is one of the strongest defensive backs we have ever had at Clemson and one of the strongest I have worked with anywhere. His bench press of 370 pounds is phenomenal for a man of that size. He is also a tremendous example for the younger players, especially the young defensive backs. He takes pride in his work in the weight room and knows that working hard with the weights will increase his playing ability. He came in with great work habits and has always done a tremendous job for us."

Finally, Nunn has gotten the job done in the classroom. He was one of four Tigers to be named to the Atlantic Coast Conference all-academic football team for 1989. He earned a 3.14 grade point average in marketing for the 1989-90 academic year and is scheduled to graduate on time next spring. "It's not easy to study and make good grades when you play football," says Nunn. "You have to learn to juggle your time in order to do a good job on the field and in the classroom. I've had a tough time this semester because I haven't been able to write much with the cast on my hand, but I'm getting the job done. When it comes down to it, its more important for me to do well in the classroom than on the football field. I just try to do well in both places."

Nunn is definitely on the road to fulfulling his self-description of achieving excellence in all aspects of his life. He hopes that as his Clemson career comes to a close, the Tigers will be invited to a fifth consecutive post-season bowl. He also hopes that his senior class will become the winningest class in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference and that the Tigers will once again finish the season with a 10-2 record. And if all of those things do come true for the 1990 Clemson squad, much of the credit can go to Arlington Nunn for simply getting the job done.

President Max Lennon

In the four years Max Lennon has been president of Clemson, the university has become one of the nation's top 100 research universities (according to the National Science Foundation), launched its largest fund-raising campaign ever, and entered its second century. But no single event during his administration may have been more important than this year's emphasis on strategic planning.

At Lennon's directive, during the past year Clemson faculty, staff and administrators have developed a blueprint for Clemson's future. As a result, Clemson enters the 1990's better prepared than ever to serve the state's needs as South Carolina's land-grant university.

The strategic plan calls for increased emphasis on undergraduate education, the environment, advanced materials, and biotechnology—areas Lennon considers critical to the state's future.

"There is an urgent need to develop a campus consensus about university priorities, and that's been the goal of our academic strategic planning process," Lennon said. "This year-long, faculty-driven process has defined four areas where we should devote greater resources, because they are areas in which we are convinced we can be a leader."

Evidence of the potential for leadership in the 1990s already is emerging, particularly in environmental sciences, to be the focus of a $10 million research initiative launched by the university in 1990. Lennon also sees potential for national leadership in innovative public-service programs, such as those in agriculture, engineering and other disciplines that enabled Clemson to help South Carolina recover from the devastation of Hurricane Hugo.

"Our goal is to become the model among land-grant universities by providing education with relevance," he said.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation to rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon came to Clemson from The Ohio State University, where he had been the vice-president for agricultural administration and executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's Commission on Agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agriculture Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree and doctorate from N. C. State.

"Our goal is to become the model among land-grant universities by providing education with relevance."

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local Rotary Club and the South Carolina Research Authority to the Board of Directors of EARTH in Costa Rica which aims through education and investments aims to improve third world agriculture.

In the fall of 1987, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed in 1988 to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 international conference in Washington.

Last year Lennon was appointed to chair a committee of top administrators and federal officials from 11 universities across the nation to work with congress on legislation relating to foreign assistance and international development. The committee is a project of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (28), and Robin (25).

Under Lennon's leadership, Clemson has become one of the nation's top 100 research universities.

Head Coach Ken Hatfield

Facing challenges head on: that might be Ken Hatfield's most significant asset. It has helped him in all walks of life, but especially when it comes to football.

As a player, he helped Arkansas face every challenge in 1964, when the Razorbacks had an 11-0 season and won the national title. As an assistant coach at Tennessee and Florida, he moulded countless players into top-notch athletes who competed for Southeastern Conference titles, played in seven bowl games in a 10-year period, and ranked in the final top-20 five times.

As a head coach, he took a dormant Air Force program to a number-13 national ranking and a pair of bowl wins. He continued to meet the challenges at Arkansas, his alma mater, guiding the Razorbacks to back-to-back Southwest Conference titles, something that had not been done at Arkansas since Hatfield was a player.

And now he faces another challenge at Clemson. His charge is to continue Clemson's contemporary excellence (only Nebraska and Miami had fewer losses in the decade of the eighties). But if Hatfield's track record for meeting challenges is any indication, Clemson football is in good hands entering the 1990s.

That track record has included eight straight trips to post-season bowls, including major bowl appearances in three of the last four years. Hatfield is one of just four active coaches to take a team to a bowl each of the last eight years. He is in noteworthy company as the other members of that exclusive club are Tom Osborne (Nebraska), Pat Dye (Auburn) and Bobby Bowden (Florida State).

Hatfield has an overall record of 82-48-2 (.629), but he has won 77 percent of his games over the last seven seasons (65-19-1). At Arkansas, he posted a record of 55-17-1 over six seasons, a .760 winning percentage. That percentage is second best in Southwest Conference history as only Darrell Royal (Texas 1957-76) had a better percentage. Hatfield's SWC winning percentage was higher than 11 former SWC coaches who are in the College Football Hall of Fame, including Bear Bryant, Frank Broyles, Jess Neely, and John Heisman.

The native of Helena, Arkansas, played in two bowl games with the Razorbacks, coached in seven post-season games as an assistant and has been the head coach in eight bowls. Five times he has coached a team to a top 15 final ranking in the AP poll, and he played on two other top 15 teams.

Hatfield-coached clubs have excelled offensively and defensively, but they have been particularly successful in rushing offense and defense. Each of his last eight teams have finished in the top 20 nationally in rushing offense, including five top 10 finishes. His 1983 Air Force team was second in the nation in rushing.

Hatfield hopes to bring a team to a bowl game for the ninth straight year. Only three other active coaches have a chance to accomplish that feat in 1990.

Two of his last four Arkansas teams finished in the top three in the country in turnover margin, including his 1988 team that was first in the nation (Clemson was second that same year). Defensively, his clubs have finished in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense five of the last six years.

The 46-year-old Hatfield has coached in three major conferences and with independent schools, giving him a diverse background in the finer points of the game. It is one reason he was named the third best teaching coach in college football by Inside Sports Magazine last summer. Hatfield began his coaching career immediately after graduation. In the fall of 1965, he served as an assistant coach at Helena-West Helena High School in Arkansas. In 1966, he moved to West Point, where he served as freshman coach for two seasons. His 1967 club posted a 9-0 record.

After the two-year stint at Army, he served as an assistant coach at Tennessee for three years (1968-70). The Volunteers went to post-season bowls all three seasons (including two major bowls), won a conference title and ranked in the final top 20 of the AP poll all three seasons, including a number-four ranking in 1970.

In 1971, Hatfield began a seven-year stint at the University of Florida, spending four seasons as a defensive backfield coach and three as an offensive backfield mentor. Florida played in four bowl games during his career in Gainesville and two more Gator teams finished in the AP top 20, including the 1974 team that played Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Hatfield became offensive coordinator at the Air Force Academy under current New York Giants Head Coach Bill Parcells in 1978. A year later, Parcells was wooed to the Big Apple and Hatfield became the Falcons' head coach. The Air Force program had not had a winning season since 1973. But by his fourth season, Hatfield had an eight-game winner, led Air Force to its first-ever victory over Notre Dame, and had taken the Falcons to a post-season bowl for the first time since 1971.

In 1983, Hatfield was named national Coach-of-the-Year by the Football Coaches Association (Bobby Dodd Award) after leading Air Force to a 10-2 season that included wins over Notre Dame, Navy and a bowl victory over Mississippi. It was the Academy's first-ever win over Notre Dame in South Bend.

The next year, Hatfield succeeded Lou Holtz at Arkansas, where he would take his alma mater to 55 wins in six seasons, six bowl appearances and four final top-15 rankings. His 1985 club finished with a 10-2 mark and number-12 national ranking, the Razor-

Hatfield teams have won 77 percent of their games the last seven years.

These statements were certainly watchwords for Hatfield as a player and these experiences have helped him in his relationship with his players. Hatfield played for three years at Arkansas (1962-64) and he was a starter on the National Championship team of 1964. A defensive back by trade, he earned his fame as the nation's top punt returner in 1963 and 1964. He also finished as the runner-up as a sophomore and is still the only college football player to finish in the top two in the nation in punt returns three straight seasons.

His most memorable play took place against Texas in 1964 when he raced 81 yards with a punt return for a touchdown in Arkansas' thrilling 14-13 victory. It was the key victory in the Razorbacks' championship season. Altogether, Hatfield scored five TDs via punt returns in his career, including an Arkansas record 95-yard return against Tulsa in 1963.

An accounting major who earned his diploma in the spring of 1965, Hatfield was an Academic All-American in 1964 and was the recipient of the Swartz Award, presented annually to the top student-athlete at Arkansas. The 1964 All-SWC selection was inducted into the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame in 1989.

backs' first Top 20 finish since 1982. Four times the Razorbacks rallied from fourth quarter deficits to gain victory.

The 1986 campaign was another year of success with highlight victories over a nationally ranked Texas A&M club and the Razorbacks' first win in 20 years at Texas. Arkansas advanced to the Orange Bowl and finished 15th in the final AP poll.

Arkansas won the 1988 and 1989 Southwest Conference Championship and the Razorbacks never finished lower than second in his six years at Fayetteville. He was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 as he took the Razorbacks to the league title and a 10-0 start. Miami (FL) defeated Arkansas 18-16 in the Orange Bowl to stop the streak. Seven players off the 1988 club (all recruited by Hatfield) were drafted by the NFL, an Arkansas single draft record.

After last season's 10-2 ledger and second straight SWC championship, Hatfield was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Decade by the Houston Post. Included in the victories was a triumph over a top-15 Houston team and Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

Hatfield has also had success off the field. A recent release by the CFA cited his 1989 Arkansas class for excellence in terms of graduation rate (over 75 percent), one of the top 10 figures in the nation.

"Football is a part of a young man's education. He learns about himself by playing football," states Hatfield. "It gives him a perspective of how to handle defeat as well as victory. Our success at Clemson will be reflected in the lives of our players after they leave Clemson University. We want to help make them the best people they can be. We want to maximize their potential. That is our challenge."

The success of The Campaign for Clemson depends on your annual gifts.

Clemson University closed the doors on its first one hundred years by making history — launching its most ambitious fund-raising effort ever. The Campaign for Clemson: A Partnership for Academic Excellence is a five-year, $62-million capital campaign that will propel the University into its next century with a solid base of support for academic scholarships, professorships, programs, equipment and new facilities.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR CLEMSON
A PARTNERSHIP FOR ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

A major goal of The Campaign for Clemson is to raise $6 million in annual, unrestricted giving through the Clemson Loyalty Fund. The University is relying even more than usual on its best and most loyal donors to continue and increase their annual giving. Otherwise, the pressing needs and priorities of scholarship, academic and library programs will go unmet. Please make your Loyalty Fund contribution to The Campaign for Clemson today and open the doors to Clemson's future.

WALLY AKE is responsible for coaching Tiger inside linebackers, the same position he held at Arkansas in 1989. Ake also spent several years coaching the Razorback defensive line (1984-88), and was the defensive line coach at Air Force for three seasons (1981-83). He spent the 1980 season as a graduate assistant coach at Arkansas where he worked with tight ends and he was the linebacker coach at William & Mary in 1979. The Hawthorne, VA native was a three-year letterman in football at William & Mary and won all-conference honors as a junior and second-team honors during his senior season. He has coached three All-America players, Wayne Martin (DE, Arkansas), Tony Cherico (NG, Arkansas), and Chris Funk (DT, Air Force), and has coached one or more all-conference players each year of his coaching career. Arkansas ranked fourth in the nation in rushing defense in 1988, seventh in 1987, 13th in 1985, and 14th in 1984, seasons in which Ake was the defensive line coach. Responsible for recruiting Maryland, Virginia, parts of Georgia and Texas, and the Washington, D.C. areas, Ake earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from William & Mary in 1972.

LARRY BECKMAN works with the Tiger offensive line, concentrating mainly on the tackles and centers after spending six years as the offensive line coach at Arkansas (1984-89). He also spent several years at Air Force, where he was the offensive line coach from 1981-83 and worked with the tight ends and special teams in 1980. Previous to his stint at Air Force, Beckman was the offensive line coach at East Tennessee State (1976-78) and worked at his alma mater, the University of Florida, as a junior varsity assistant (1975) and as a graduate assistant in 1966. He was an all-Florida defensive end in high school at Miami Edison and lettered three years at offensive guard at Florida, where he was an All-Southeastern Conference choice and an honorable mention All-American in 1965. Beckman also served as captain of the 1965 Gator squad. Since 1982, he has coached in eight straight bowl games and Arkansas ranked in the top-20 in the nation in rushing all six years he coached the offensive line. Beckman earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida in 1966 and his master's in the same field in 1967. His recruiting territory includes Alabama, and parts of Texas and Florida.

LARRY BRINSON, a former NFL player, is in charge of the Tigers' young group of running backs as well as recruiting the Atlanta, GA, and Miami, FL, areas, and parts of Texas. The Miami, FL, native has spent the past six years as the running back coach at Arkansas (1984-89) and also spent a year working with that group at Air Force (1983). Brinson was a four-year letterman at the University of Florida as a running back before entering the professional ranks. He rushed for 1,105 career yards and nine touchdowns with the Gators before spending three seasons with the Dallas Cowboys, where he was a member of the 1977 and 1978 Super Bowl teams. Statistically with the Cowboys, Brinson rushed for 124 yards on 26 attempts and gaining 502 yards on 23 kickoff returns. Brinson also spent two years (1980-81) with the Seattle Seahawks before a knee injury ended his playing career. He earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida in 1983. Brinson has participated in 13 different bowl games as either a player or coach and Arkansas ranked in the top-20 in the nation in rushing all six years he served as an assistant.

LES HERRIN is in the second season of his second stint with the Clemson program after coaching at North Carolina (1988) and East Carolina (1985-87). Responsible for coaching the defensive line and recruiting in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, Herrin was the Tiger inside linebacker coach from 1981-84. Before coming to Clemson for the 1981 national championship season, Herrin also spent a year as the defensive coordinator at Appalachian State (1980). A Waycross, GA, native, Herrin earned his bachelor's and master's degree from Western Carolina where he was a four-year letterman in football and a team captain. During his first two years at Clemson, the Tigers ranked in the top 10 in scoring and rushing defense. Herrin also coached ACC MVP Jeff Davis, who went on to be captain of the Tampa Bay Bucs and 1989 All-Pro Johnny Rembert of the New England Patriots. Clemson ranked in the top-10 in scoring and rushing defense his first two years at Clemson and last season ranked fifth in the nation in scoring, rushing and total defense.

ROGER HINSHAW is responsible for coaching the Tigers' talented group of outside linebackers, a position he previously held at Arkansas (1984-89) and Air Force (1983). Hinshaw also worked as the defensive coordinator at Livingston University (1979-82) and as a graduate assistant at Appalachian State (1974). Hinshaw earned his bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education from Appalachian State in 1974, where he played defensive back for the Mountaineers and led the team in interceptions as a senior. He coached Kerry Owens, currently with the Cleveland Browns, while at Arkansas, where the Razorbacks ranked in the top 20 in the nation in rushing defense four of his six years. Hinshaw's recruiting responsibilities include the state of Louisiana, and parts of North Carolina and South Carolina.

RICK STOCKSTILL is in his second season with the Tigers after joining the Clemson coaching staff in February of 1989. Stockstill came to Clemson from the University of Central Florida, where he spent four years as assistant head coach and wide receiver coach (1985-89). Stockstill's responsibilities at Clemson include coaching the Tiger quarterbacks and recruiting sections of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Prior to his stay at Central Florida, Stockstill spent two seasons as offensive coordinator and quarterback coach at Bethune-Cookman (1983-84). The Sidney, OH, native earned three letters in football from Florida State University, where he quarterbacked the Seminoles to consecutive Orange Bowl appearances after the 1979 and 1980 seasons. Stockstill was also a 1980 and 1981 All-Southern Independent and All-Metro Conference performer for FSU. He received his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida State in 1982, where he was an honorable mention All-American. FSU was ranked sixth nationally in 1979 and fifth in 1980. In his first season with the Tiger coaching staff as quarterbacks coach, Clemson set a school record for completion percentage (60%).

BOB TROTT serves as the Tigers' defensive coordinator in addition to coaching the defensive secondary. He spent the 1989 season as the defensive coordinator at Arkansas, where he was also the defensive back coach from 1984 to 1988. Prior to working with the Razorbacks, Trott was the defensive back coach at Air Force for three seasons (1981-83), and worked with the Falcon outside linebackers for three seasons (1978-80). He was also a part-time assistant coach at North Carolina in 1976 and 1977. Trott was a three-year letterman at the University of North Carolina and won academic All-ACC honors as a senior. He has coached five professional players: Kevin Wyatt (Miami), Greg Lasker (N.Y. Giants), Steve Atwater (Denver), Anthony Cooney and Richard Brothers (Chicago). Ninety-five percent of the players he coached at Arkansas received their degrees. Trott earned his bachelor's degree in business from North Carolina in 1976 and his master's in teaching in 1982. He is responsible for recruiting Tennessee, and areas in North Carolina and South Carolina.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN has been at Clemson longer than any other coach on the 1990 staff after joining the Tigers on January 5, 1979. The Brazil, Iowa native coaches the offensive line and is in his first season as the Tigers' offensive coordinator. He came to Clemson after coaching at Memphis State (1975-78), where he served as offensive coordinator, Virginia (1974-75), East Carolina (1973-74), Indiana State (1969-73), and Drake University (1968-69). Van Der Heyden coached the defensive line at his alma mater, Iowa State, from 1965 to 1967, and served as a graduate assistant coach there in 1964. He is a member of the all-time Iowa State team, selected by former players and coaches, and was a member of the Big Eight all-conference team and the captain of the baseball team in 1961. He also won the Reuben Miller Award for Most Valuable Player on and off the field at Iowa State that same year. Van Der Heyden earned three letters in both football and baseball from Iowa State and received a bachelor's degree in physical education (1962) and a master's degree in education (1968) from the same institution. He has coached three All-America guards over the last seven years at Clemson and for a five-year period (1983-87), one of his guards was chosen All-ACC. Clemson has ranked in the top-20 in the nation in rushing offense six of the last seven years while Van Der Heyden has been the offensive line coach. His recruiting areas include South Carolina, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Tennessee.

RICHARD WILSON works with the Tiger wide receivers in addition to recruiting the Columbia and Charleston, SC, areas, parts of Texas, and all junior colleges. He comes to Clemson after a year as the receiver coach at Arkansas (1989) and two seasons at The Citadel, where he worked with the wide receivers (1988) and the defensive secondary (1987). He spent the 1986 season as a volunteer coach and head junior varsity coach at Missouri, where he worked as a graduate assistant in 1984 and 1985. The Hope, AR, native played one year at Central Arkansas for the National Championship team and spent three years as a player at Arkansas, where he saw action in the secondary and on special teams and played on the 1980 Sugar Bowl team. He coached two professional players while at Missouri, Eric McMillan (N.Y. Jets) and Robert Delphino (L.A. Rams) and Arkansas was 11th in the nation in total offense his only year with the Razorbacks. Wilson earned a bachelor's degree in education from Arkansas in 1981 and received a master's in sports management from Missouri in 1985.

Clemson's Alumni Center Isn't What It Used To Be... It's Better!

We've remodeled, and we're open before and after each home football game. Our new look is comfortable, updated and available for your enjoyment.

We also have a new mobile Alumni Center. Our Alumni Association van is your Alumni "on the road" headquarters. You'll find the van at away football games, Clemson Club meetings and near the football stadium at home games. The van brings Clemson to you wherever you are.

We may look different, but we're still dedicated to serving, informing and involving you in the ongoing life of Clemson University.

We look different . . . both on campus and on the road . . . and we're looking for you.

Clemson Alumni Center
Open
Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
Two hours before home football games
One hour after the conclusion of home football games

Clemson Coaches

In addition to the success enjoyed by the 12th-ranked 1989 football squad, nine other Clemson sports ranked in the final top 25 nationally for the 1989-90 sports year. Clemson was the only school in the nation that won a bowl game, an NCAA Tournament basketball game and an NCAA tournament baseball game in the 1989-90 year. It marked the second straight year that Clemson has pulled off this triple play. Clemson and Illinois were the only schools in the nation to participate in all three of those postseason events.

Three Tiger sports programs won conference championships as the men's indoor and outdoor track teams won the ACC Championship and the Tiger golf squad tied for first in the conference. The Tigers boasted 82 first-team All-ACC players last year, a new school record, and 20 Clemson athletes won All-America honors.

Both of Clemson's basketball teams advanced to the Sweet 16 of their respective NCAA tournaments. Clemson was one of only three programs to have both teams in the Sweet 16. Clemson also had two conference MVPs in spring sports as centerfielder Brian Kowitz won the honor in baseball and James Trapp was the MVP of the outdoor track season. Philip Greyling was the Tigers' third conference MVP, winning honors for indoor track.

Three Clemson coaches were named ACC Coach-of-the-Year in four different sports, as Bob Pollock won honors for the indoor and outdoor track seasons, along with Jim Davis (women's basketball) and Cliff Ellis (men's basketball).

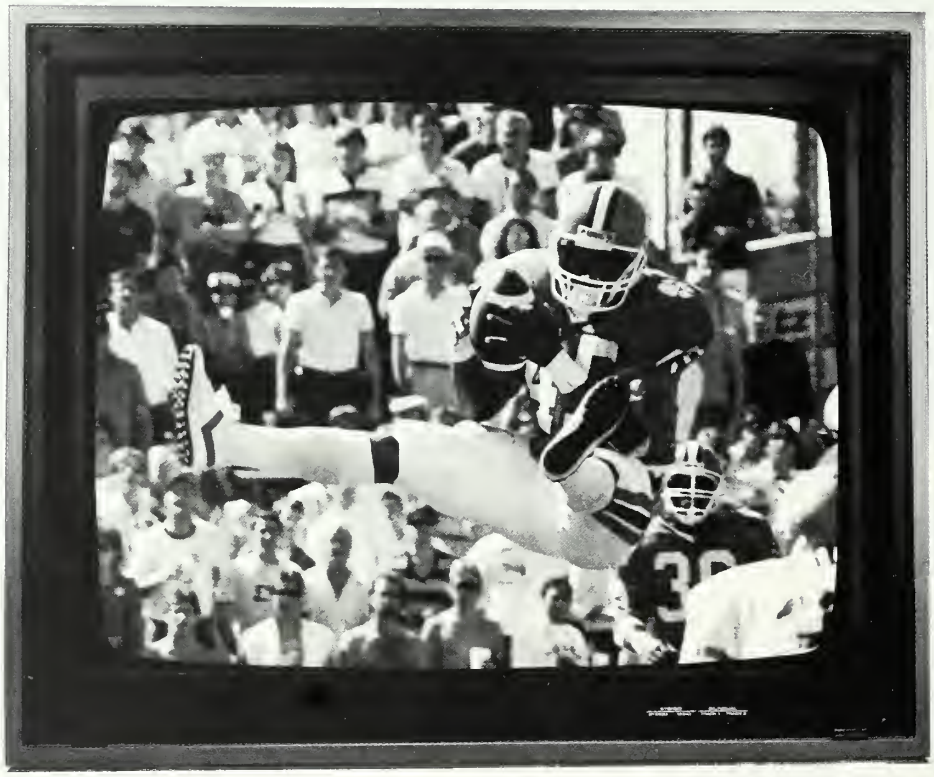
GREAT RECEPTION.



When it comes to the excitement of Atlantic Coast Conference Football, the next best thing to being there in person is watching our complete, comprehensive and state of the art production on television.

For the seventh consecutive year, JP Sports brings you the up-close action of twelve ACC games. No wonder ACC Football is the most watched regional collegiate TV network in the U.S.

In addition to ACC Football, look for other JP Sports programming, such as ACC Basketball, SEC Basketball and Great American Independent Football, a coalition of some of the strongest independent football teams in the country, just to name a few.

Just clip this ACC schedule and check local listings for the station carrying the games you want to see.

Then, if you don't get tickets to the game, you can get great reception at home.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing- there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow ... and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen to twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through."

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,568 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled- the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian College coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillian said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

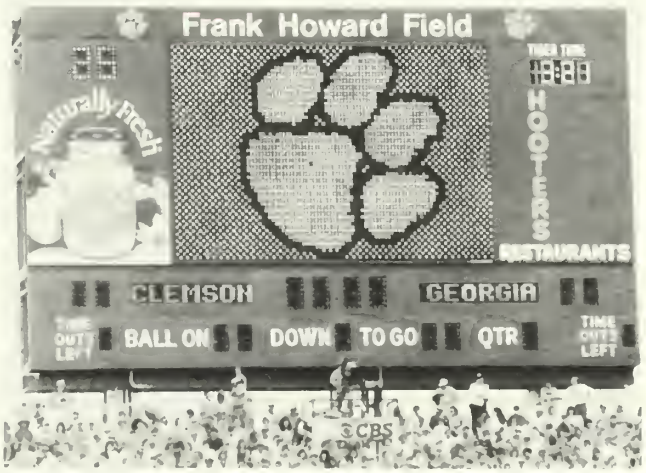
"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time- like five to seven years- that we can sell out what we have now." he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if its harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.



Clemson Memorial Stadium has over 100 luxury boxes, more than any other on-campus facility in the nation. Clemson's message board keeps fans up to date with other scores and stats, and also projects player's pictures after an outstanding play.

It takes all the extras to build a winning team.

Reaching goals requires teamwork and extra effort.

SCE&G's goal is to make the energy we all use go further in the 90s. So we've put together an all-star lineup of Energy Extra products and services to help you get the most out of your energy dollar.

Our team of energy-saving programs includes our Good Cents home building program and low interest loans for weatherization. Both work to heat and cool your home more efficiently. Our Great Appliance Trade-Up assists you with the cost of a new, high-efficiency heat pump or air conditioner. And our bright, energy-efficient outdoor lighting helps protect your home after dark.

SCE&G's team of experts also helps residential customers, businesses and industries identify ways to conserve energy and maintain productivity.

Through the use of Energy Extras, you'll help conserve energy resources and reduce the need to build new electric generating plants.

Join our team effort to help manage future energy use. Call toll-free, 1-800-868-0147, or visit your local SCE&G office and put our all-star team of Energy Extras to work for you.

Scott Beville

By Mickey Plyler

In basketball, an assist is given to a player who makes a pass that directly leads to a field goal. If such statistics were kept in football, Clemson snapper Scott Beville would be one of the nation's leaders in this category.

Clemson fans have cheered Chris Gardocki, who is currently 12th in the nation in punting with a 42.87 average and seventh in the nation in field goals per game with 1.9 figure. But what goes unnoticed to many fans are the near perfect snaps that start almost every punt, field goal, and extra-point.

Gardocki understands the importance of the snapper and gives Beville much of the credit for his success. "I was real lucky to start my career with Scott," Gardocki says. "He is the only snapper I have ever worked with here and I cannot tell you how easy he makes my job. I have been very fortunate to have Scott because of his snaps and great protection. He starts the whole process with the success he has enjoyed and he does not get the credit he deserves. He is an integral part of our kicking game."

"The kicker has to have faith in the holder and the holder has to have faith in the snapper," says Beville who is a veteran of 34 games in his Clemson career. "If one player's timing is off, it makes things difficult. Snapping on punts is very different. It is longer, but there are only two people involved. I know Chris is going to get the punt off fast because of his one-step style. I just have to concentrate on hitting him between the '1' and the '7' and I know that no matter how hard they rush, he can get it off. I can release with our two ends and help cover the punts better, because he is so fast."

Knute Rockne once said, "The center's pass must always be true. It is the most important position on the field as he starts every play." Beville is proof that Rockne's philosophy is justified.

"The biggest part for me is concentration," Beville adds. "The physical part of snapping has become easier to me, but now I have to keep my mind focused on each snap. But Jimmy McLees has done a great job and of course Chris is one of the most gifted kickers anywhere in the nation. I am just glad that I have the opportunity to snap for someone that talented. I think every year and every game my confidence has grown."

Last season Gardocki became just the second player in NCAA history to rank in the top 10 in the nation in both punting and placekicking in the same season. Add to the fact that Gardocki has never had a punt blocked and it is easy to get the picture that Beville is a part of a remarkable story at Clemson.

Among other accomplishments, Beville is one of the Clemson seniors who are trying to establish an ACC record for victories in a career. If Clemson can win today, the seniors will go for the record against South Carolina in their final home game on November 17. Two wins would give the seniors a 39-8 record with a chance for their fourth straight 10-2 season and a fifth consecutive bowl victory.

"With the parity that has reached the ACC, we have a chance to set a record that may not be broken. It would be nice if I can look back 10 years from now and tell people that I was a part of the winningest class in ACC history.

Beville came to Clemson as a linebacker after an outstanding career at Forest High School in Ocala, FL where he led his high school team to the state semifinals before being eliminated by Escambia High School and Emmitt Smith. Beville impressed the coaching staff in his red-shirt season from his linebacker spot, but he suffered a knee injury and later had four knee operations forcing him to adjust his plans and position.

Beville came to Clemson as a linebacker, but after suffering a severe knee injury, he has now become one of the Tigers' leading assist men.

"The summer before my sophomore year, Coach (Bill) D'Andrea asked me if I wanted to give it a try at snapping and I saw an opportunity. My first game as a snapper was against Furman my sophomore year. I can remember how nervous I was. The only thing I thought of was how everyone would remember me if I got off a bad snap," says Beville. Luckily he did just fine and he and Gardocki have really become an excellent combination.

"Probably one of the most exciting things about this season is the play of Chris Gardocki, in both his punting and his placekicking," Clemson head coach Ken Hatfield states. "You cannot have a great kicker without a great snapper and holder. Scott is the one who is always going to get hit the hardest. My brother was a snapper and I know the things they go through. It is not easy because he has to get the ball back there perfect every time knowing you are about to get your head knocked off. Scott has great strength and gets good zip on the ball. He has been a stalwart in enabling our holder Jimmy McLees and Gardocki to enjoy the success they have had this season."

Beville, who is graduating in December, says the experience he has gained at Clemson has been enjoyable.

"The atmosphere here is unbelievable. The fans make Clemson the greatest place in America to play football. I am happy that I can say I that I have been a part of one of the best programs in the nation. Bowls have been special to me. I have family in Ocala, FL near Orlando and St. Augustine outside of Jacksonville. Christmas at home has been nice and I have been lucky to be so close at home during the bowl practices. One year we had Christmas in my hotel room with presents and a tree. It has been nice to play in bowls close to home.

So the next time you see Chris Gardocki boot a 50-plus yard field goal or launch a spiraling 60-yard punt, do as Gardocki and Hatfield do and give some praise to Scott Beville, Clemson football's assist leader.

Mike Eppley

By Tim Bourret

To avid sports fans, it seems Bo Jackson is everywhere. Commercials, magazine covers, radio interviews, more commercials, television features, books and commercials. There is a fascination with Jackson's ability to play two sports professionally.

Less than a decade ago Clemson had a Bo Jackson of its own. Mike Eppley was the only athlete in Division I to start in both football and basketball during the 1982-83 academic year and he was one of just two to perform the unique double in 1983-84.

He performed both with distinction in terms of production and leadership on the field, and at the same time carried a career GPA that was always in the 3.3 to 3.5 range. For these athletic and academic accomplishments, Mike Eppley will be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame at halftime on Saturday.

We can't say it is an honor long overdue, because this is the first year Eppley has been eligible. In any Hall of Fame induction, selection in the first year of eligiblity is a statement in itself. In fact, it seems like only yesterday that Eppley was out there running the option against North Carolina's William Fuller, or bringing the ball up court against the Tar Heels' Michael Jordan.

"It still seems like I should be playing," said Eppley, who looks like he could lead the Tiger offense today. "When I heard I was going to be inducted it made me stop and think how old I am. The years go by quickly.

"It is a great honor to be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame. When you think of the Hall of Fame you think of Frank Howard and Banks McFadden, and to be in the same group with people like that makes it very meaningful."

The induction also has a special meaning to Eppley because he has been following the Tigers since he was young, played varsity sports for five years, and now continues an affiliation as the analyst on the Clemson football network. "I have enjoyed doing the games on the radio network because it keeps me connected to the program. Clemson will always be an important part of my life."

Eppley was one of the more high profile athletes at Clemson in the decade of the eighties. As Clemson's starting quarterback in 1982, 1983 and 1984, he was part of a senior class that posted a 37-6-2 overall record. He guided Clemson to a 9-1-1 ledger in 1983 and finished the season ranked third in the nation in passing efficiency.

Yes, he had a higher rating than Randall Cunningham of UNLV (now starter with Philadelphia Eagles), Mike Tomczak of Ohio State (now with the Chicago Bears), Jeff Hostetler of West Virginia (now with the New York Giants), Boomer Esiason of Maryland (now starter with Cincinnati Bengals) and Bernie Kosar of Miami (now starter with the Cleveland Browns).

Eppley posted a 146 passing efficiency rating, still a Clemson record for quarterbacks with over 100 attempts in a season. The current Vice President of Yandle-Witherspoon Supply Inc in Charlotte still holds the Clemson single season and career record for touchdown passes, and the career record for completion percentage.

On the hardcourt, Eppley was a starter for three seasons between 1981-82 and 1983-84. Fittingly, passing was Eppley's forte in basketball as well. He dealt out 268 assists in his career, still one of the top 10 figures in Clemson history. He led Clemson in assists in 1981-82 when he teamed with Vincent Hamilton in the Tiger backcourt. He concluded his basketball career with a 77.4 percent free throw mark, one of the top figures for a Tiger player in the decade of the eighties.

Eppley also excelled in the classroom, which makes his athletic accomplishments even more impressive. Five times he was an academic All-ACC choice in football and basketball and he was a fourth-team Academic All-American in football in 1983. He was also the second recipient of the Jervey Athletic Scholarship and had a 4.0 GPA in high school.

"I am not a list type of person, I just kept my schedule in my head and took one day at a time," said Eppley, who has an undergraduate and master's degree from Clemson. "I just kept things in perspective and set goals. I tried to do the best I could each day. It was not that big an adjustment when I came to college because I had been playing more than one sport since junior high school. Education was always the biggest priority for me.

"I don't regret playing both sports for one minute. In fact, I wish I had gotten in a season or two of baseball, but I just could not work it into my schedule."

Eppley's schedule was hectic. In 1983 he started all 11 football games, then four days later was at basketball practice. He played in the IPTAY tournament a week after the football season had ended and made two free throws with 20 seconds left to ice a five-point win over Marquette in the championship game of that tournament.

When asked about his most memorable moments as a Clemson athlete Eppley said, "It is difficult to rank something like that. But, If I had to recall three moments special to me I would say the Maryland victory in College Park that clinched the ACC football championship in 1982 would be one. The Spirit Blitz Day in 1983 was something special. I will never forget the sight of all those balloons when we ran down the hill. My first start as a Clemson athlete was in a basketball game at Virginia in 1982. That was special to me because it relieved a lot of (self-inflicted) pressure.

"Those were fun years and I appreciate them more now. If I had one message to send to the athletes at Clemson today it would be to enjoy the competition today because you will appreciate these times later when you can't play. Athletes need to finish their education because you won't have football or basketball forever."

Eppley's competitive sports career came to an abrupt halt soon after his Clemson career ended when a curvature of the spine was detected in a physical conducted by the Dallas Cowboys. "I was crushed when that happened because I had worked 20 years to get a shot at playing pro football someday. I was very dejected. But, I always felt it was important to keep your options open. I came back to Clemson and got my master's degree and have enjoyed my business career."

Since graduation Eppley has also started a family. He and his wife Dayna, have one boy, Logan, and one girl, Olivia. Will Clemson see some multi-sport athletes named Eppley in the 21st century?

"I won't pressure any of my kids into sports. My dad gave me very good guidance when I was growing up. He always told me you have to live with your own decisions. That's what I will do, give guidance, but the decision will be up to them. But, I certainly would be proud to see them in a Tiger uniform someday."

1983 NCAA Passing Efficiency Leaders

Rank	Name	School	Rating
1.	Steve Young	BYU	168.5
3.	Mike Eppley	Clemson	146.0
6.	Randall Cunningham	UNLV	141.2
11.	Mike Tomczak	Ohio State	134.5
14.	Boomer Esiason	Maryland	133.2
15.	Jeff Hostetler	W. Virginia	132.0
19.	Bernie Kosar	Miami (FL)	128.5

Eppley was a man for all seasons between 1980-84. He was third in the nation in passing efficiency on the gridiron in 1983, and also faced the likes of Michael Jordan on the hardcourt. Eppley was Academic All-ACC in both football and basketball.

Clemson's Poll History

By Brent Breedin

When Clemson University finished number-one in the 1981 Associated Press football poll and defeated Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to confirm that rating, it became only the 21st school in the poll's history, to achieve such an honor. Three others have joined this group in the final eight years of the 1980s, making the tabulation today; 24 universities as mythical football champions over the past 54 years.

Football continues to be the only major college sport whose champion is determined annually by votes cast by sportswriters. However, if today's voting by a representative group of approximately 60 sportswriters occasionally results in frustration, consider what things were like during the first quarter-century of the poll.

Clemson fielded outstanding teams in 1939 (Cotton Bowl champions), 1948 (11-0 record and win over Missouri in the Gator Bowl), 1950 (undefeated Orange Bowl champions), and 1959 (Bluebonnet Bowl champions with a decisive win over seventh-ranked TCU); yet until 1980, the Tigers were in the record books with a single "top ten" finish — 10th in 1950.

A lot of this had to do with the poll methodology used by Associated Press in its early years. While in 1936, first year of the poll, the Associated Press received ballots each week from a selected group of 35 to 47 sportswriters, by the 1938 season it was accepting and counting weekly ballots from any news organization that subscribed to the Associated Press wire service. This fact was not publicized by the Associated Press, but was sufficiently well known by newspapers and college athletic offices that some degree of ballot-stuffing began to take place. This likely hurt Clemson because of the limited number of Associated Press outlets and sportswriters covering the Tigers at that time. To even things up, an occasional friendly sportswriter would vote with his heart instead of his head in listing the Tigers number one.

In 1950, this particular writer was a 24-year-old sports editor/columnist for the Anderson Daily Mail. I was in my second year covering Clemson, having missed out in all the fun of 1948 when the Tigers were 11-0 and Gator Bowl champs. The 1949 team played .500 ball, and as the '50 season got underway, Frank Howard was leaning toward the platoon system in order to improve what was a leaky defense the year before. A trip to Missouri to play coach Dan Faurot's nationally ranked split-T Tigers resulted in a shocking 34-0 win by Clemson and my first awareness of the AP's voting procedures for the "top ten."

I was the only South Carolina sportswriter at the game, and on the long bus ride from Columbia, Missouri, to St. Louis where our plane was waiting, Coach Howard was waxing eloquent: "I don't believe any team in the country could have beaten us today," he said. I agreed, and when he said, "Are you going to vote us for number-one in the poll," I was embarrassed to say, "I don't think I can."

The knowledgeable "Baron of Barlow Bend" didn't press the point, but said, "Sure you can. Check it out."

At my desk the following Monday I called the Associated Press sports desk in New York and inquired about voting procedures and learned that the Anderson Independent, the Anderson Daily Mail and Radio Station WAIM each were entitled to vote by wiring collect to the Associated Press their "top ten." For the remainder of the 1950 season, except following the Tigers' 14-14 tie with South Carolina's Gamecocks on Big Thursday of that year, I voted three times for the Tigers as number-one. In the final poll, I was joined by four others, and Clemson finished in 10th place for the first time ever.

In 1960, the Associated Press went back to its original plan of selecting representative sportswriters to cast ballots for their "top ten" each week. Approximately 60 have done so ever since — down from a high that reached over 400 in the 1950s. In 1968, the Associated Press also began holding a post-bowl poll to take into account bowl results. Had these rules been in place in the first quarter century of the poll, Clemson's 1939, 1948 and 1959 teams would likely have been "top ten" finishers like the 1950 team. As it was, when the 1978 Tigers defeated Ohio State in the Gator Bowl to finish sixth in the Associated Press national rankings, it was officially Clemson's second "top ten" team. The decade of the 1980s have produced four others: 1981, 1982, 1988 and 1989. Let's take a look at the three "should have beens."

Only mar on the 1939 Clemson team's record was a 7-6 loss to an undefeated Tulane team that lost 14-13 to the undefeated national champions, Texas A&M, in the 1940 Sugar Bowl. Even so, the Tigers were ranked 12th in the final Associated Press poll of Dec. 11, 1939. Three Eastern teams — Cornell, Duquesne and Boston College — outranked Clemson, but in all likelihood the Tigers' 6-3 win in the Cotton Bowl over Boston College would have jumped them into the Top 10. Sixth place Missouri's defeat at the hands of 16th place Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl might have dropped that Big Eight eleven below Clemson as well. But, there was no post-bowl poll.

With Clemson's 13-6 victory over Oklahoma in the 1988 Citrus Bowl, Clemson finished ninth in the final AP poll.

18	Clemson (3)	2-0-0	110
19	Michigan	0-1-0	95
20	Pennsylvania	1-0-0	67

Though it's difficult to imagine a 10-0 Clemson team not making the Top 10, that's exactly what happened to the 1948 Tigers. Almost 400 votes were received by the Associated Press in its final Nov. 29 poll — largely because there were five other undefeated teams each doing what they could to muster support for a possible mythical national title. The heavy midwestern contingents ranking Michigan and Notre Dame, one-two gave enough Top 10 votes to Northwestern with two losses for that team to finish seventh.

Clemson's victory over Missouri in the Gator Bowl, coupled with ninth place Oregon's loss to 10th place SMU in the Cotton Bowl and eighth place Georgia's defeat at the hands of unranked Texas in the Orange Bowl would likely have moved the Tigers up one or two places in a post-bowl poll.

In 1959, the last year of the so-called "popular" vote allowed by the Associated Press, an undefeated Syracuse team decisively outpolled runner-up Mississippi with its 9-1 record for the mythical championship. There were 201 votes cast, down somewhat because Syracuse was the nation's only undefeated team. Clemson finished in 11th place, but would have moved up as a result of bowl finishes, the Tigers crushing a seventh-ranked TCU team, 23-7, in the first Bluebonnet Bowl. Tenth-ranked Alabama lost to 12th rated Penn State in the Liberty Bowl.

ACADEMIC LEARNING CENTER
CLEMSON UNIVERSITY

Ground was broken last winter on Clemson's $2.5 million Academic Learning Center. The facility, located near the center of campus, is expected to open in early 1991.

Tiger Basketball Preview

By Tim Bourret

Tearing down goalposts and cutting down nets have become familiar images when fans recall successful college seasons.

When it comes to Clemson, postgame celebrations on the gridiron have been common over the last 50 years. But, in recent years, that indoor winter game has been catching up.

On February 28, 1990 Clemson players severed the nets after a landmark 97-93 victory over Duke that gave the program its first ever Atlantic Coast Conference regular season title. The standing room only crowd did not want to depart Littlejohn Coliseum that evening, for longtime fans wanted to savour the moment. They realized a large block had been firmly cemented in the foundation of a basketball tradition, one that has seen much masonry work of late.

The man who has been setting all these bricks is Head Coach Cliff Ellis, the ACC's Coach-of-the-Year in 1987 and 1990, and the first Tiger coach to take Clemson to an ACC title of any kind.

"Clemson University has a great tradition, but Clemson basketball has been lacking relative to other areas within the university," said Ellis, who has 119 wins in six years at Clemson. "We have made strides in recent years by advancing to the NCAA Tournament three of the last four years, winning over 25 games two of the last four years and, of course, winning the league race last year."

There was a litany of significant accomplishments in 1989-90:

*A school record 26 victories.

* The ACC regular season championship (10-4), Clemson's first ever.

* Advancement to the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament.

* A Final Top 20 ranking in every poll, including #17 by AP and UPI.

* A perfect 14-0 season at home and homecourt winning streak that has reached 24 heading into 1990-91.

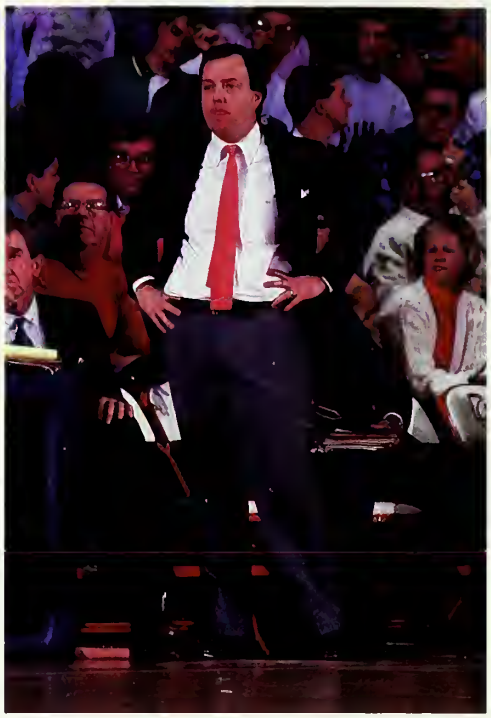
* A school record 12 wins away from home.

* Two first-team All-ACC players, (Elden Campbell, Dale Davis), for the first time in Clemson history.

* A first-round NBA draft pick (Elden Campbell).

*The ACC Coach-of-the-Year (Cliff Ellis).

"But, we must continue to gain consistency. It takes 15-20 years to build a tradition. We enjoyed last year and it was a year of great significance, but we can't look back. We've got to keep going."



Cliff Ellis hopes to take Clemson to its fourth NCAA appearance in the last five years.

Dale Davis has more rebounds than any other active Division I player.

It was a season truly worth remembering. A first glance at the key participants in Clemson's auspicious beginning to the 1990s would indicate ordering more scissors would not be necessary for the 1990-91 season.

Gone are five lettermen and three starters who were prime reasons Clemson had a long celebration on February 28th. Elden Campbell concluded his career as Clemson's career scoring leader, eclipsing Butch Zatezalo's 22-year-old record. The All-ACC, 6-11 center was a first-round draft pick of the Los Angeles Lakers. Derrick Forrest, Marion Cash and Kirkland Howling were all junior college transfers who played significant roles on Clemson's last two NCAA teams.

Despite these losses, Clemson can be a strong contender for an NCAA bid and compete in the first division of the ACC race. The Tigers should be strong up front, feature a versatile team with a multitude of lineup possibilities, and hope some first-year freshmen make significant contributions in the backcourt.

Frontcourt

The leader of the Clemson frontcourt and the unquestioned leader of the entire team is the incomparable Dale Davis. The 6-11 senior center has the ability, leadership, statistics and most important, work ethic to become the initial consensus first-team All-American in Clemson history.

Davis has 876 career rebounds heading into his senior season, more than any other active player in the nation. The native of Toccoa, GA has led the ACC in rebounding in each of the last two seasons. Only Tree Rollins has more career rebounds than Davis among Clemson players.

"Dale Davis personifies everything you want in a player," said Ellis. "He has a great attitude, is a fine person and has the work ethic to make it in the NBA. He is right there with Horace Grant and Terry Catledge (South Alabama, and now NBA). He strives to meet the challenge, is very coachable, a natural leader. He should be a lottery pick next year."

Davis became the first ACC player ever to pace the conference in field goal percentage and rebounding in back-to-back seasons. He shot 62.5 percent from the field last year when he averaged 15.3 points and 11.3 rebounds per contest. The 1989-90 first-team All-ACC player ranks second in ACC history in field goal percentage, only Brad Daugherty (Cleveland Cavaliers and North Carolina) has a higher percentage. His career mark of 61.6 is fourth best in the nation among active players with at least 400 career field goals.

Joining Davis up front will be Sean Tyson. The former Baltimore Dunbar High School star might have been the most improved player on the Clemson team last year. Heading into last season Cliff Ellis stated that Tyson was a player who can put his team back into a game, or take a team out of a game. Most of the time last year, he provided the primary impetus for a key spurt down the stretch. Tapes of the Clemson - LaSalle game (when Clemson overcame a 19-point deficit to win) in the second round of the NCAA tournament give testimony to that observation.

"Sean Tyson is a player who is ready to be a consistent leader. He has the skills to play professionally. His time has come to step to the forefront. With Davis and Tyson we have two hard working hustlers who will not back down from anyone."

Tyson started just seven games, but he was third on the club in scoring with an 8.5 average. He shot 55 percent from the field and also found time to pull down 4.1 rebounds per game, third best on the team. He paced the club in steals per minute and was second on the squad in points per minute. Only leading scorer Elden Campbell had a higher figure.

Tyson was especially effective at tournament time with a 16-point performance against Wake Forest in the ACC Tournament and 17 points in Clemson's 79-75 victory over LaSalle in the NCAAs.

Wayne Buckingham is a third returning letterwinner who should see significant playing time up front. "Buck" averaged just 2.3 points and 2.0 rebounds a game last year, but he saw limited duty due to the presence of Clemson's "Duo of Doom", Campbell and Davis, who were both All-ACC.

Buckingham paced the team in offensive rebounds per minute as he garnered one every six minutes and he was second only to Dale Davis in terms of overall rebounds per minute. "Buck will see much more playing time this year. He gained a lot of experience late in the year and improved his baseline postup moves. He gives us added bulk and strength inside."

"It will be important for Buckingham and Tyson to perform well so teams can't double team Davis. That has been important for our successful teams in recent years. We have had a tandem inside that doesn't allow the opposition to concentrate on just one lead player."

Ricky Jones and Colby Brown are two more returning lettermen in the strongest area of the Clemson club. Jones, a fifth-year senior, started six games in 1989-90, but averaged just nine minutes per outing. He scored 3.9 points per game, but connected on 50.5 percent of his field goal attempts.

A reserve much of last year as a junior, Jones could return to a starting slot he held much of 1988-89. He came through with clutch reserve outings last year, the most memorable took place at Maryland when he scored 14 points in 19 minutes on 6-8 field goal shooting in Clemson's two-point win. A fine talent with outstanding leaping ability, Jones has ranked in the top three on the club in blocked shots per minute for three straight seasons. He and Elden Campbell are the only players in Clemson history to play on two 25-game winners.

Brown played just 89 minutes last year, but that number is sure to increase in 1990-91. The former high school baseball pitcher scored 2.1 points and accumulated 1.4 rebounds per outing last year. A fine all-around athlete, he can help Clemson at three different positions.

"Both Jones and Brown are veterans who will see increased playing time this season," said Ellis. "I am expecting both to have a major impact on this team on the floor and in a leadership area. Jones will see much more time as a post player at the number-four position. He is capable of hitting the three-point shot, but he has some fine post-up moves we will take advantage of this year. Both are good athletes who can block shots."

Two incoming first-year freshmen could also see action as frontcourt players. Steve Harris and Tyrone Paul are both 6-5, but are candidates for action at the three-spot, or small forward position.

Paul attended Morningside High School in Los Angeles, the same school that produced Elden Campbell. Paul averaged 20.5 points and six rebounds per game in leading his club to a 24-4 ledger last season. He was the Los Angeles Player-of-the-Year in 1990.

Harris was South Carolina's Mr. Basketball last year when he averaged 23.6 points and 9.5 rebounds a game at Hillcrest High School in Greenville, SC. He was a consensus all-state choice, including the team chosen by USA Today.

Backcourt

"The backcourt will be the questionmark for Clemson basketball this year," said Ellis. "We lost three backcourt players who helped us to 45 wins in two seasons, including a 13-1 record in ACC home games. It will be difficult to replace Cash, Howling , and Forrest, they really did a job for us in their two years here.

"They helped us continue the tradition and now we have recruited a good group of first-year freshmen we hope can add more to their legacy."

David Young is the leader of the backcourt based on his experience and firepower. Young started 27 of the 35 games a year ago at the wing guard position and averaged 6.1 points per game. He made 39 three-point shots to lead the club and also had the best assist-to-turnover ratio on the club. He set a Clemson record for assists by a wing guard with 142 and committed only 66 turnovers.

"David will have to be a leader in our backcourt as a two-three position player. He did obtain some experience as a point guard last year, but we do not expect to use him at the point this year. However, he will handle the ball more than most two-guards that we have had. With freshmen seeing a lot of time in the backcourt it will be important that working the ball up the court will be a team effort this year."

Young shot just 36.3 percent from the field, a by-product of shot selection. Over 60 percent of his attempts were from outside the three-point arc.

Shawn Lastinger is the only other returning guard with over 100 minutes of action in the 26-9 campaign. The native of Atlanta had a fine rookie season with 54 points and 19 assists. He was a significant contributor in ACC wins over Maryland and Duke. In fact, he was presented the game ball by the Clemson team for his ability to hold his own against Duke's pressure defense when Marion Cash ran into foul trouble. He guided the Clemson offense to 35 points in just 13 minutes in the game for the ACC title.

Tyson had 46 points in Clemson's first scrimmage. He will be a key to Clemson's season.

Donnell Bruce is a senior with experience on three post-season Clemson teams. He played just 38 minutes a year ago, but did score 21 points as a reserve in 10 games. Walk-on Joey Watts should also be a contributor in 1990-91.

Five freshmen figure to play prominent roles in the backcourt for the Tigers. All have outstanding offensive skills, but it could be the individual's ability to learn the defensive concept that holds the key to the winner of the playing time derby.

Clemson led the ACC in field goal percentage defense last year with a .410 figure, the best percentage by an ACC team in 15 years.

Andre Bovain is a 6-1 point or wing guard from Columbia, SC. He averaged 20 points and pulled down seven rebounds per outing on the way to an all-state season.

Eric Burks is a 6-3 point guard from Atlanta who scored 23 points and dealt out six assists per game. He hit 45 percent of his three-point shots and connected on 76 percent of his free throws, two areas that have not been strong for Clemson the last couple of seasons.

Bruce Martin averaged 38 points a game for Shady Springs High school in West Virginia a year ago in a season cut short by a knee injury. Jimmy Mason averaged 17 points and four assists for Pinecrest High in Southern Pines, NC. Harris, Martin, and Mason all signed with Clemson in the early period.

Emergency Services

By Christine Kelly
Genentech, Inc.

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake and physical exertion. Our two more frequent serious medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice. Seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.
2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea and/or shortness of breath.

Expect a Denial

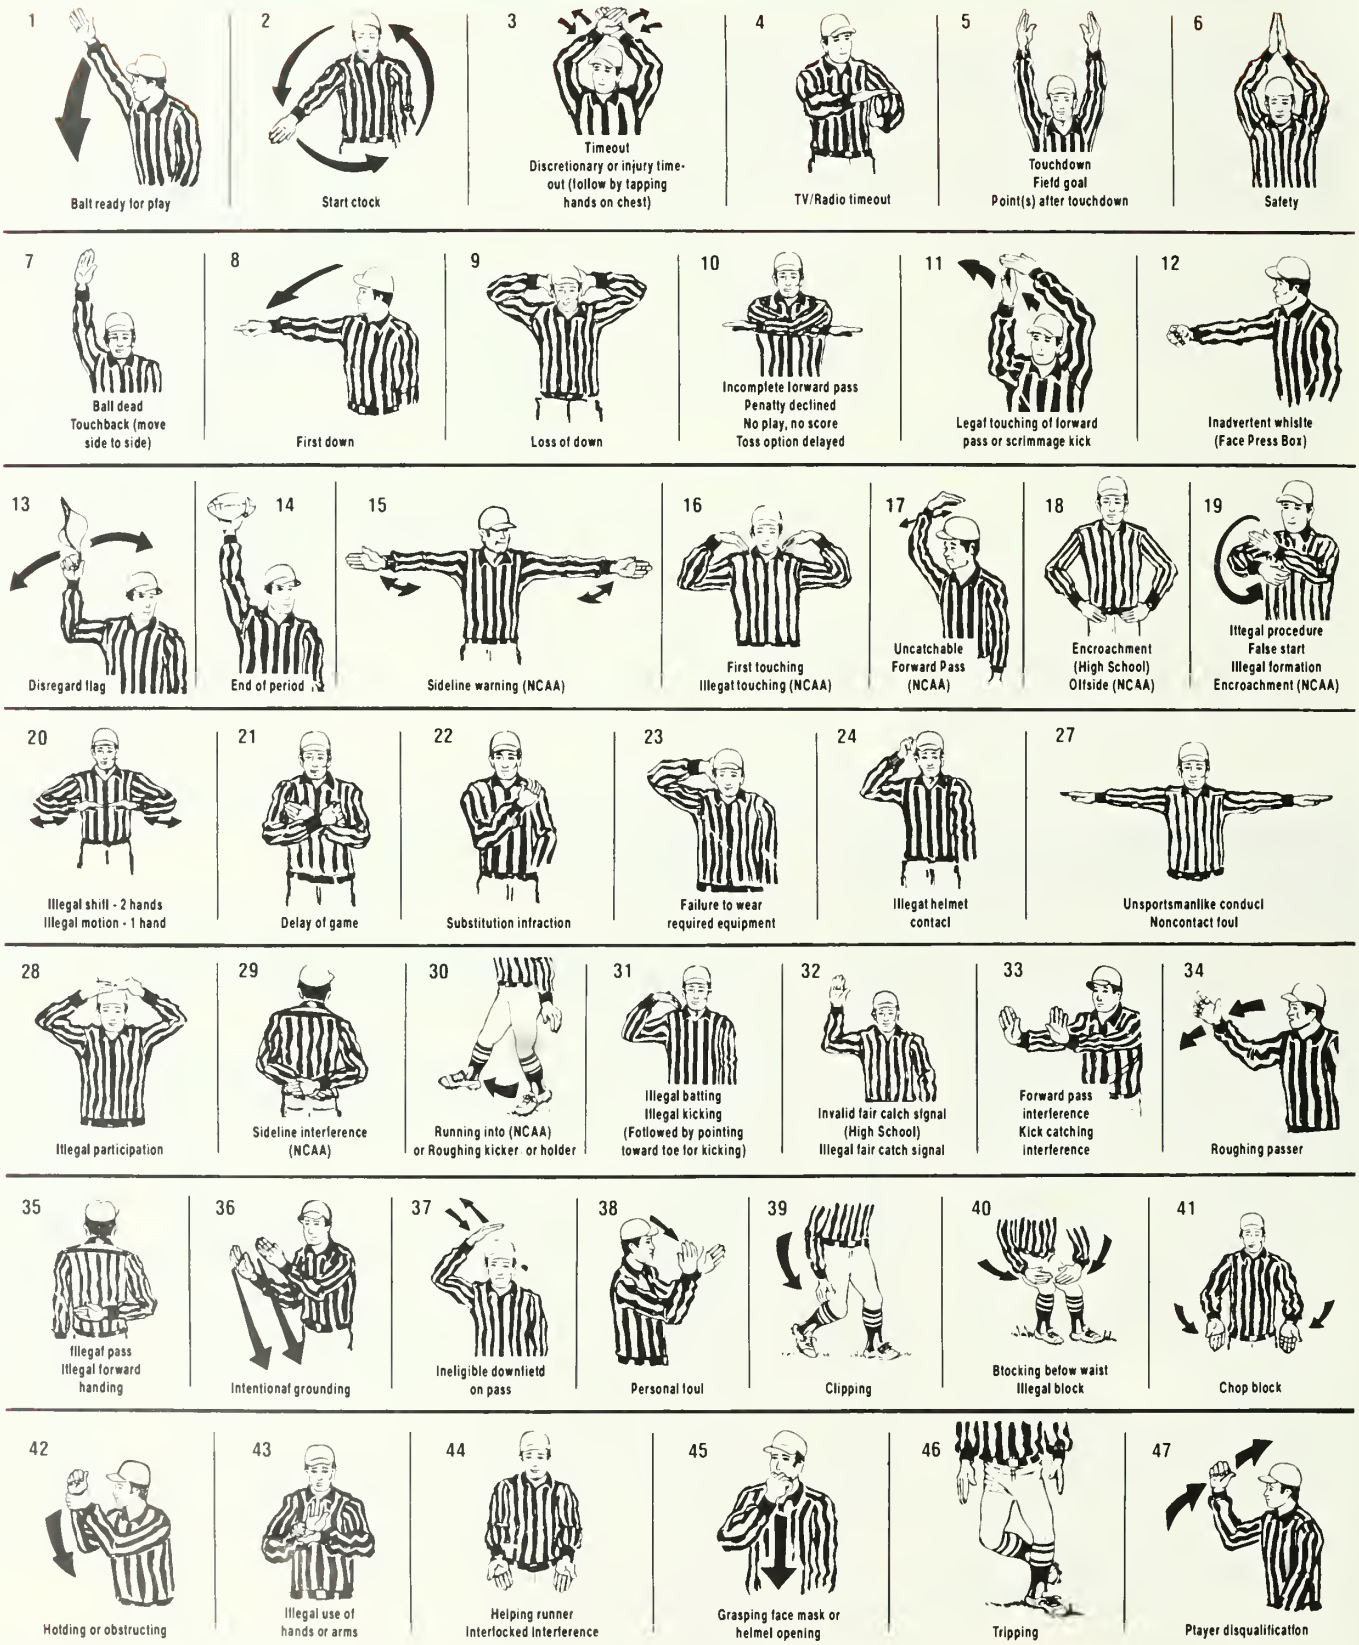
Frequently heart attack victims deny they're having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "it's just indigestion."

Find out what's really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

Official Football Signals



NOTE: Signal numbers 25 and 26 are for future expansion.

We've cleaned up more towns than Wyatt Earp.

This may come as a shock, but the average American home is loaded with hazardous wastes.

The fact is, a lot of that seemingly harmless stuff we've all got lying around the garage or the basement could be incredibly dangerous.

Like the old jars of paint from the kids' model airplane years. The pesticides from some long-forgotten experiment in home gardening. And the brake fluid and motor oil from the days when do-it-yourself seemed like a good idea.

The memories may fade away, but the hazardous chemicals won't.

However, in city-after-progressive-city, people are waking up to the fact that we can't continue to treat our homes like hazardous waste dumps, and we can't continue to throw toxic chemicals out with the rest of the garbage.

In hundreds of cases, Laidlaw Environmental Services has been called in to help communities manage a series of Household Hazardous Waste Collection Days.

Which makes a lot of sense, because Laidlaw Environmental Services is one of the nation's leading companies in the management, movement, treatment and disposal of chemical wastes. And one of the leading consultants in helping people clean up their cities.

So, if you'd like to know more about establishing a household cleanup program for your community, give us a call at Laidlaw Environmental Services today.

And we'll help you get the troublemakers out of town by sundown.

You make the Call!

QUESTION: You own a vehicle dealership that sells many of your cars and motorcycles to Clemson students. You have often been asked by the bank to co-sign as guarantor for such loans and have done so many times.

A Clemson swimmer comes to you to buy a motorcycle and after submitting the paperwork the bank requests a co-signer. Can you do this?

ANSWER: NO. Even though it is legitimate for you to sell a car or motorcycle at the reasonable retail value to a student-athlete, you cannot co-sign or guarantee a loan for them.

Clemson Athletic Department, 1990

Mother-of-the-Year

By Heather Czeczok

Today is Hall of Fame Day here at Clemson. It is also the day which Tiger Brotherhood has chosen to honor another important institution-Motherhood. Mrs. Evelyn Jamieson has been selected as the 1990 Mother-of-the-Year.

Mrs. Jamieson was completely shocked when she heard the news that she had been selected as Mother-of-the-Year. "My children called me up to Charlotte Saturday (Oct. 20) and told me the news. I cried for over thirty minutes. They gave me a framed copy of the nomination letter written by my son Jeff. Most of my children were there. The oldest is in Saudi Arabia working for Westinghouse.

"The nomination itself was such an honor. I couldn't believe that my son who is so busy with work and wedding plans would take the time to do this for me. That was what touched me so much and made me cry."

Mrs. Jamieson's Clemson connection began back in 1949 when she moved to Pendleton, SC, from Pennsylvania. She lived there with her brother John Hromi who began teaching at the university in 1949.

It was in Pendleton that she met her future husband-Bill Jamieson. He was a freshman at Clemson University. Bill was also "the boy next door" to Evelyn while she lived in Pendleton. They were married in 1950.

Due to financial reasons, Bill was never able to finish college. The couple did, however, recognize the importance of higher education. They instilled into their seven children the necessity of a good education. As a result, all seven of the Jamieson children graduated from Clemson University. The youngest will receive his degree in May.

According to Mrs. Jamieson, she and her husband never pushed their children into going to Clemson. "We let them decide for themselves. My daughter Jennifer told me that 'We all knew from day one that we were going there (Clemson), Mama.'" Jennifer and her sister Melissa both found their husbands at Clemson. All three of her sons majored in electrical engineering.

"For 22 years we have had children at Clemson. There were only a couple of years in the 70's that we didn't." The entire time the Jamieson family has supported the Tiger teams.

While Mrs. Jamieson's occupation has been "Wife and Mother" for the past 39 years, she has devoted her time to the advancement of her children. This in turn has produced seven outstanding Clemson University graduates.

Her role as a mother has also involved various other church and community activities. She has served in the Parent-Teacher Association, Little League (football and baseball), and Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of America. Her efforts include working with the Macon Little Theater, designing an elementary school yearbook, and numerous fund-raising activities. She is also an active member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Macon, GA. The Jamieson family was named Macon's Family-of-the-Year in 1978.

Mrs. Jamieson is proud to say that the Clemson spirit is being instilled into the future generations of Jamiesons. "We have five grandchildren with one on the way. We are teaching them to think, 'Go Tigers!'"

While Tiger Brotherhood is honoring Mrs. Jamieson today, many people may be wondering "What is Tiger Brotherhood?" Today, the Brotherhood is a local, selective, honorary fraternity. It still embraces the same basic philosophy as established by its founder, led by Professor John Logan Marshall, in 1929. Enamored with ritual, the Tiger Brotherhood promotes high standards of social and ethical conduct, while recognizing in its members an earnest devotion to Clemson, coupled with the integrity of character commensurate with the typical Clemson Gentleman.

Tiger Brotherhood embodies an unequalled cross-sectional representation of the Clemson community. Students, faculty and staff all work within the bonds of brotherhood to champion a closer relationship. One for all and all for one. With Clemson its many traditions and undying spirit as our central focus, the Brotherhood today provides a viable, flexible and continuing forum for ideas and unending service to Clemson.

The Tiger Brotherhood is proud to recognize Mrs. Evelyn Jamieson for her dedication to and support of Clemson University. She has begun a stream of Orange Blood that will run strong for years to come. Mrs. Jamieson more than deserves her title as the 1990 Tiger Brotherhood Mother-of-the-Year.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

MY DEGREE GOT ME THE INTERVIEW. ARMY ROTC GOT ME THE JOB.

Things got pretty competitive for this job. I'm sure my college degree and good grades kept me in the running. But in the end it was the leadership and management experience I got through Army ROTC that won them over.

You can begin to develop impressive leadership skills with an Army ROTC elective. Register now without obligation.

LEADERSHIP EXCELLENCE

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

We're bringing on the Carolina Pride Hot Dogs.

The Official Hot Dogs of CLEMSON TIGERS

We Mend South Carolina's Broken Hearts.

During the past two decades, South Carolinians and their referring physicians have known of our commitment to provide the very best in cardiovascular care. In each and every year since 1974, Providence physicians have performed more cardiac catheterizations and open heart surgeries than any other hospital in the state. As we start this decade, confidence in Providence continues to grow. Already this year, we have performed more open heart surgeries than for any like period in our history.

We're proud of our cardiovascular team — the cardiologists who diagnose and treat patients, the cardiovascular surgeons who do open heart procedures, the skilled technicians who operate state-of-the-art equipment, and the dedicated nursing staff who provide both specialized professional care and exceptional TLC.

Thank you, South Carolinians, for this trust. We will continue our commitment to offering the highest level of cardiovascular care, and to maintaining our reputation as the state's preferred hospital for mending broken hearts. At Providence Hospital technology, experience and caring go hand-in-hand.

In a year that saw many changes in the Clemson University Athletic Department, one thing remained a constant; the success of IPTAY. Despite the destruction and financial loss caused by Hurricane Hugo, as well as an increase in the minimum IPTAY donation from $30 to $100, faithful Clemson supporters were still able to make this another record-breaking year for IPTAY. As the nation's largest fundraising organization, IPTAY was able to raise $5.8 million towards its commitment to the student-athlete. Due to these efforts both on the part of the IPTAY staff, and the generosity and support of the Clemson community, Clemson was one of only two schools in the nation (the only other being Illinois) to have teams participate in a bowl game (1989 Mazda Gator Bowl), the NCAA Basketball Tournament (advanced to the Sweet Sixteen in the East Regional), and the NCAA Baseball Tournament (Central Region).

Clemson was the only school to gain at least one win in each of these post-season events. Clemson also produced 82 first-team All-ACC athletes, 20 All-Americans, captured three ACC Tournament Championships, and won two regular-season ACC Championships, including its first-ever in men's basketball. Nine teams finished in the final Top 25 of their respective sports.

The success of the Clemson athletic program comes during a time when the integrity and accountability of the academic progress of student-athletes are receiving national attention. IPTAY has been a large part of this success by being committed to the student-athlete.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four, and five-million dollar marks in annual donations. The 1989-90 academic year marks the 26th consecutive year of increased contributions to the IPTAY scholarship fund.

In 1934, Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind: IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Clemson continues to be one of the few schools in the nation to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for 18 men's and women's varsity sports. Since 1934, IPTAY has provided scholarships for over 5,000 student-athletes, trainers, and managers.

Allison Dalton is the leader of America's top athletic fundraising organization.

Contributions by IPTAY are responsible for many of Clemson's outstanding facilities.

IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to assure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics.

IPTAY is currently playing an intricate role in the Campaign for Clemson, a long-range fundraising project of the University. IPTAY has been asked to raise $2.5 million of the University's overall goal of 62 million dollars for the construction and development of the Learning Center, a new academic building on East Campus. The funds for this project come via IPTAY donors and IPTAY has already raised over one million dollars for the project.

The Learning Center is presently on schedule to open in the spring of 1991 and its construction is well under way. The Learning Center is a 29,000 square-foot facility and it will house the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. The building will contain various-sized study and tutoring rooms to be used for individual study as well as for small group instruction.

Computer facilities, an office/reception area for the advising staff and an auditorium will also be contained in the center.

The generous support of 18,200 loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalleled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $32 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the newly renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the new outdoor track, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, and the IPTAY/ Ticket office facility.

IPTAY is also proud to provide funding for the Tiger Band. Each year IPTAY budgets financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. IPTAY was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts which are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of any kind at Clemson, providing $1.38 million in funds, currently benefitting more than 50 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

The tremendous success of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup which allows members to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County chairman, and every county is alloted an IPTAY representative for every 35 members.

This year's IPTAY speaking circuit was highlighted by Clemson's new football coach, Ken Hatfield. A man of character and integrity, as well as a proven winner, Hatfield stressed the importance of IPTAY and its mission. Hatfield commented on his first impressions of IPTAY.

" The IPTAY organization and the people involved far surpassed the tremendous reputation that they had before I had arrived here. Allison Dalton, Bert Henderson, and Bob Mahony and all of the rest who are involved, organize and coordinate the program as well as I have seen. Every local meeting was precisely managed." Hatfield continued, "I guess the thing that stuck out most though, was the atmosphere of love and support for Clemson exhibited by all of the people I met."

IPTAY donors are kept up-to-date with Clemson athletics through the Orange and White. This is an official IPTAY publication which is distributed exclusively to IPTAY donors in appreciation of their support.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

Bob Trott

By Sanford Rogers

It has been called the most exciting 25 seconds in all of college football. When the Tigers are at the top of "The Hill" the crowd is at a fever pitch. Everyone in the Death Valley is excited with chills running up and down their body. Well almost everyone. The one group that is not too excited about this grand entrance is the opposing team.

One member of the Clemson coaching staff has been on the other end of this excitement. He is defensive coordinator Bob Trott. Coach Trott played his college football at none other than today's gridiron opponent, The University of North Carolina. Trott, who played defensive back for the Tar Heels in 1974 when they traveled to Clemson has fond memories of that day which Clemson prevailed 54-32. "Coming down and playing against Clemson in Death Valley was a challenge. The thing I remember the most is that we did not play very well and that it was really loud."

Trott was raised in Kannapolis, North Carolina where he attended A.L. Brown High School and lettered in football, track and wrestling.

Trott received his bachelor's degree from North Carolina in business. He then became a graduate assistant under then Tar Heel Head Coach Bill Dooley, Clemson's opponent last week. Trott then continued his education and received his master's degree in teaching education. "Growing up I enjoyed playing sports and after my playing days ended I realized coaching was something I wanted to do."

During his senior year at North Carolina, Trott was named Academic All-ACC for his efforts on the field and in the classroom. It is obvious by the 95 percent graduation rate among his players at Arkansas that he puts a great deal of emphasis on academics. "The fact is you are here to get an education first," said Trott. "Using football as an excuse to not getting your degree is a very poor one. I have done it (gotten a degree playing football) and others have too."

Trott has also seen a number of players go on to play professional football, including star defensive back for the Denver Broncos Steve Atwater. "It is important that even these athletes get their degrees. Playing pro sports is a bonus. You have to be very lucky to have the opportunity to play professionally. You never know when your career might be over and you need something else to fall back on."

Coach Trott joined Bill Parcells' staff at the Air Force Academy as an outside linebacker coach. When Parcells left the Academy in 1978 to join the New York Giants, the new head coach was then offensive coordinator Ken Hatfield. Trott served under Hatfield as the defensive back coach at Air Force and then when they both moved onto Arkansas. In 1989, Trott was named defensive coordinator at Arkansas and is serving in the same role here while also coaching the defensive backs.

"I have been with Coach Hatfield for a long time and feel very fortunate to be on his staff. He is a unique person and his attitude toward the treatment of other people, players, and assistant coaches is different than many other individuals. When I look around and see how assistants are treated at other institutions, I realize that I am very lucky to be with Coach Hatfield and his staff."

Coach Hatfield also feels lucky to have Trott involved with the Clemson program. "Bobby and I have been coaching together for 13 years now and our defense has been ranked as high as first at Arkansas and among the top three in our time here at Clemson. Coach Trott is super intelligent, and as well as our other assistants, do a great job of putting a gameplan together every week."

Today's gameplan just might be a special one for Trott. "All games are a challenge and this one does have special meaning to me. I still have friends there, a good number of them being North Carolina graduates. Naturally, my friends have an added interest in the game with me being here at Clemson."

Coach Trott has been very pleased with the move to the land of Tiger Paws. "Clemson is a good school academically and we should be very proud of that. Also the people in the community and fans have been very supportive of all of us. Another bonus about Clemson is that you are so close to so many things, the mountains, the beach and also my home."

Trott and his wife Barbara have two daughters, Amanda (8), and Brittany (5), and one son Nathan (5). It is fairly obvious what this successful defensive coach does in his spare time. "When you have three small children, I love nothing more than spending as much time as I can with all of them."

Today, when the Tigers run down "The Hill" and the crowd is going crazy, one might want to remember that there is a group not as excited about it as the Clemson fans are. It is hard to believe that someone on the Clemson sidelines knows how they feel. Don't count on getting any sympathy from Trott. He is now one that knows how it is to be the recipient of the cheers instead of being the spectator from the other team.

Coach Trott is joined by his wife Barbara and Amanda, Brittany and Nathan.

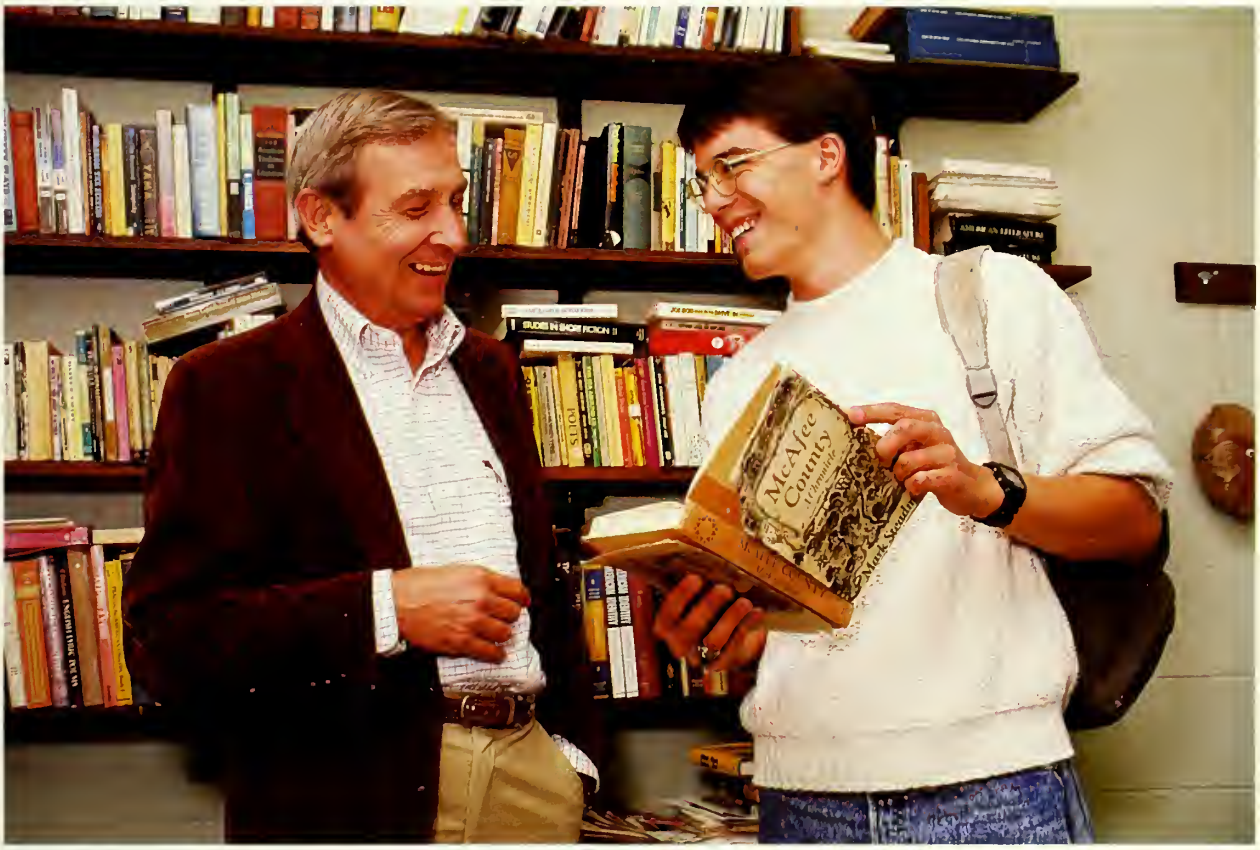
"To stay young in mind and spirit, teach young people."

— Alumni Professor Emeritus Harold Cooledge,
December 1987 commencement address



What's so funny? Ask any past or present student of Clemson English Professor Mark Steadman. Since 1957, his use of humor has been leaving 'em laughing in courses on American humor, fiction writing and English and American literature. The author of "Bang-Up Season," "Angel Child" and numerous other works of fiction was recently named the Lucius Harvin Alumni Professor of English.

"A good teacher should have a wide range of appeal and the ability to get through to students on many levels. That is the only way teachers can really make a difference. And making a difference is what teaching is all about."

As the North Carolina Tar Heels face the 1990 Clemson Tigers today, they will encounter more than just one football team. The Tar Heels will be challenging the entire Clemson athletic tradition. Today is Hall of Fame day in which all members and new inductees are celebrated.

The Clemson University Athletic Hall of Fame was set up in 1973. It was created in order to recognize and honor some of the greatest athletes and administrators who have served the Clemson athletic community.

This year there is only one inductee to the Hall of Fame. Mike Eppley will be the 96th person to be inducted which will take place during a special ceremony at halftime. He lettered in both football and basketball at Clemson in the early 1980's.

Today is also a special day for Tiger Band members and their families. It is Tiger Band Parents' Day. Each musicians' parents were invited to attend the band's 8:00 A.M. pre-game practice. It was followed by a Bar-B-Que luncheon for the families. After the tailgating festivities, the parents accompanied their children to participate in the family tradition of cheering on the Tigers.

Pregame festivities will begin today as Tiger Band takes the field with "Sock it to 'em" and "TIGER RAG!" Dotting the "I" is Mother-of-the-Year, Evelyn Jamieson of Keowee Key, SC. The band will continue with "Washington Post March." Professor Mark Greer will direct "America the Beautiful" as the University Chorus sings.

The invocation will be given by Rev. Steve Ashworth. He is the campus minister for the Clemson Church of Christ.

Dr. Richard Goodstein will conduct "The Star-Spangled Banner" as Clemson's Pershing Rifle Company C4 presents the colors. Under the direction of Dr. Dan Rash, the chorus and band will present the Clemson Alma Mater.

Anticipation will mount with the sounds of "Sock it to 'em", knowing that the ultimate finale of the pregame show is approaching. As the first notes of "TIGER RAG!" echo through Death Valley, all expectations will be fulfilled as the Clemson Tigers run down the hill for the 216th time!

Today's halftime show will begin with a special jazz feature by the North Carolina Marching Tar Heels. The 260-member band is under the direction of professor Jim Hile. A salute to Irving Berlin will be offered as the band plays an arrangement of "Alexander's Rag Time." Glenn Miller's "Big Band Tunes" will continue the show, followed by "Big Noise for Winnetka." A Latin style jazz waltz "La Fiesta" by Chick Corea will cap off the Marching Tar Heels' show.

Clemson Tiger Band will "take us to the circus" in its show today. Ringmaster Richard Goodstein's animals will perform "Strike Up the Band." The Tigers will roar with "Thunder and Blazes" next. The entertainment will move to the arena for "Trombone Rag." "Caravan Club" will end the show in the center ring spotlight.

As the minutes of halftime tick down to seconds, Tiger Band will change gears and bring our spirits back to Death Valley. "Sock it to'em" and "TIGER RAG!" will put the Clemson roar back in the crowd as we prepare for the second half kick-off.

For musicians at Clemson University, there is more to the music program than football game performances and occasional concerts. There is also Mu Beta Psi, a special co-ed fraternity for musicians. Membership requirements are a 2.0 GPR, sophomore standing, and at least two semesters of participation in a musical organization at Clemson. The current membership is about fifty brothers and pledges who participate in at least one of the numerous bands or choral groups.

The different choral groups include University chorus, CU After Six, Chamber Singers, and Gospel Choir. There is also a number of bands, namely Tiger (marching) Band, Pep Band, Symphonic Band, Jazz Band, and Clemson Orchestra.

The purpose of Mu Beta Psi, according to brother Lynn Davis, is "to promote music to the musicians on campus and in the community." This is achieved through the raising of money for scholarships, ushering at musical events, and working for the performing arts departments, as a service to the faculty of those departments.

One other function of the local Mu Beta Psi chapter is to host the fraternity's national convention every fifth year. This February Mu Beta Psi will open its arms to members from across the country.

Each spring Mu Beta Psi presents an award to one band and one chorus member. All members, including those not in Mu Beta Psi, are considered. The award is based on outstanding participation, musical ability, and leadership.

The 1990 officers of Mu Beta Psi are Jennifer Brown, President; Gene Wilson, Vice-President; Heather Harris, Secretary; Jennifer Rogers, Treasurer; Marc Oburg, Sergeant at Arms; Lynn Davis, Member at Large; Elizabeth Holder, Fraternity Activities Coordinator; Dennis Kekas, Pledge Master; and Michelle Wagner, Co-Pledge Master. Dr. Richard Goodstein serves as faculty adviser for the fraternity.

Today is a special day for Tiger Band members and their families. It is Tiger Band Parents' Day.

The Last Word

By Bob Bradley

Seniors on the 1950 team, (and there were 17), had a pretty good season — like 8-0-1 — and an Orange Bowl bid tacked on behind that which became the ninth victory of the campaign.

But that group of four-year players had two distinct honors, and one of them has yet to be equalled by Clemson football teams since.

These seniors were the first to play on two bowl teams for the Tigers. That since has been surpassed and bettered by the 1988 and 1989 seniors, who played on four post-season teams. And the 1990 seniors could join that elite pair.

But the one chest-popper that puts these 17 a little bit above the regular cut is they are the only ones to play on two undefeated teams. When the 1948 team went 11-0-0, these players were sophomores. They then floundered through a 4-4-2 '49 year before rebounding in 1950, and became the first Clemson team to play in the Orange Bowl.

It's been 40 years since then. And this weekend many of them will return to the campus to pat each other on the back again and to add 10 more yards on that pass or run that was really only 25 yards, but has now grown to 35. But the Good Lord tends to look over things like this. There's no law against thinking big.

And what these 17 did was pretty big. Clemson has been playing football 95 years and has 500 victories. Thousands have put on the Tiger uniform, but only 17 have been on two undefeated teams.

They were: Jack Brunson, Jackie Calvert, Frank Carothers, John Childress, Fred Cone, Dick Gillespie, Billy Luke Grigsby, Dick Hendley, Bob Hudson, Fred Jarrett, Ed Martin, Ray Mathews, Charlie Mooney, Gil Rushton, Sterling Smith, Albert Willis and Wyndie 'Dumb-Dumb' Wyndham.

Frank Howard was head coach and his assistants were Russ Cohen, Walter Cox, Bob Jones, Banks McFadden, Covington 'Goat' McMillan and A.W. 'Rock' Norman.

Of the coaches and players, Childress, Wyndham, Cohen, Jones, McMillan and Norman are deceased.

The 1950 season started out in its usual fashion — a romp (55-0) over Presbyterian. And here's another distinction for this team ... three backs gaining over 100 yards each rushing. Cone (143 yards), Mathews (131) and Calvert (109) did the honors that day vs. the Bluehose.

Today is Clemson's 890th football game, and three backs have gone over 100 yards in the same game only four times in Tiger history. Do you want a Believe It or Not?

Seven days later these same three backs performed the same feat again ... this time against Missouri ... Calvert (175 yards), Mathews (120) and Cone (111). And folks, that did not happen again for 28 years (1978). The only other time it's been accomplished was in 1982. Amazing!! Only four times in 95 years, but twice in eight days .. by the 1950 team.

But back to that Mizzou game. Those 'Show-Me' Tigers were ranked 18th in preseason polls. However, on the first play from scrimmage, Calvert raced 81 yards to score and set the stage for the rest of the day.

This was the second game of the season, September, hot, and Howard was making numerous substitutions trying to keep fresh players in the game. This was two-platoon football, but Wyndham played both ways — linebacker on defense and blocking back on offense.

"Maybe I put some in there that shouldn't have been," Howard recalled, "or maybe I was putting too many 'green ones' in there. Anyway, Dumb-Dumb came up to me and said: 'Coach, how about not putting more than six of them sorry ones in on defense with me at one time. I can protect six of them, but I don't think I can protect more than six.'" Wyndham might have been the hardest hitter in Clemson history. He once knocked out players on three straight plays.

Calvert also pulled a nifty trick in that game not so often seen. He had over 100 yards passing (181) and over 100 (103) rushing. Homer Jordan last did it in 1980.

N.C. State became the third straight shutout (27-0) victim and then the Tigers had to wait 12 days for 'Big Thursday' to roll around in Columbia. And that nearly proved to be fatal. Clemson had to score in the last quarter, then wait to see if Charles Radcliff's PAT was good for a 14-14 tie. It was.

There was nearly a tie the next week at Winston-Salem. Mathews and Cone were injured early in the game. Jim Shirley and Frank Kennedy, along with Calvert, shared the running chores. Calvert's long scoring run helped to provide a 13-0 Tiger halftime lead. But Wake Forest scored on the last play of the game to cut the Clemson lead to one, 13-12. Bob Patton then rushed through and blocked the PAT attempt, and the Tigers were 5-0. (Wake did not have the option of going for two as that rule was not yet on the books.)

In the next four games, (Duquesne, Boston College, Furman and Auburn), Clemson outscored the opponents 186-36. The Tigers recorded another shutout against Auburn, which had to be one of the coldest days Clemson ever played in. The high that day was 9 degrees and coaches and managers went out and bought up every pair of long underwear in two counties. Fires on the sidelines were a common site.

Clemson finally got its Orange Bowl bid, but not before Howard was quoted by Furman Bisher in the Atlanta Journal as saying: "They (the OB selection committee) could drown in their own orange juice." Howard 'accused' Bisher of trying to get him fired by misquoting him. Bisher told him that if he had written what Howard had actually said, they both would have been fired.

But in one of the most exciting Orange Bowl games ever played, Sterling Smith tackled Frank Smith in the end zone for a safety late in the game and the Tigers took Miami, 15-14, after leading 13-0, then falling behind, 14-13.

So the ban on lying and stretching the truth will be lifted for the weekend. As happens so many times when jolly-good friends get together, the first liar doesn't have a chance. But remember, Dumb-Dumb, Childress and those four coaches are watching and listening.

These are the men who brought home Clemson's 1951 Orange Bowl trophy and one of the most satisfying victories in the annuals of the Tigers' football history.

THE BUILDING TEAM

When Santens of Belgium decided to locate a towel manufacturing plant in the United States, they selected Yeargin Enterprises to design and build their new facility.

Utilizing the Design/Build concept and the latest planning, scheduling, and estimating technology, Yeargin assembled "The Building Team" to work with Santens toward satisfying their specific needs and technical requirements.

Through Value Engineering and their Project Control Management system, Yeargin was able to minimize the total cost of the project while maintaining the desired aesthetic and functional values for the facility, which allowed Santens to maximize the return on their investment.

The result—a first-class, top quality, cost effective facility completed on time and within budget.

Let "The Building Team" show you how to bring your project to reality.
